Goldfine To Testify On Adams' Gifts

Millionaire Who Dispensed Favors To Appear July 1

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Millionaire Bernard Goldfine, who dispensed gifts and favors to chief White House aide Sherman Adams, has agreed to testify before the House subcommittee investigating government regulatory agencies, disclosed Goldfine's acceptance of the group's invitation to appear with some of his records.

Harris also said "I don't think there is any question that Federal Trade Commission secrecy rules were violated when former Chairman Edward H. Brown sent a memo to Adams giving the name of a complainant against one of Goldfine's textile firms."

Harris said the subcommittee sent the New England textile magnate a telegram asking him to testify in connection with a case involving the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Contacts SEC
Adams acknowledged contacting the SEC in 1956 in Goldfine's behalf after Goldfine had complained to him about his difficulties with the agency.

Harris told a news conference that Goldfine's lawyer had telephoned him a few minutes earlier and told him Goldfine "will be here" to give the subcommittee his side of the case.

A reporter asked Harris if he planned to ask Goldfine for his tax records. "We will cross that bridge when we get to it," the chairman replied.

Some subcommittee members have expressed an interest in finding out whether Goldfine wrote off his many favors to Adams as business expenses. Adams has contended they were part of a long-standing family exchange.

Harris said it "is up to the President" whether he has done the right thing in keeping Adams at his post. "I hope he has searched his conscience."

Alf M. Landon, 1936 GOP presidential candidate, said in Topeka, Kan., that the administration "should kick Sherman Adams out of the White House or prepare to get kicked out themselves in 1960."

Harris said the subcommittee would resume its politically explosive investigation into the alleged influence for - favors case involving Goldfine and Adams next Tuesday.

He said SEC Chairman Edward N. Gadsby and four other SEC commissioners would testify, along with former SEC Chairman Sinclair Armstrong.

The subcommittee is investigating the SEC's handling of violations of the Securities & Exchange Act by Goldfine's East Boston Co.

Double Murder Suspect Hunted By Houston Cops

HOUSTON (UPI)—Houston area police Friday were searching for a double-murder suspect after a 23-year-old tugboat worker told them he was kidnapped by a man who claimed to be the killer of a young Houston couple last month.

The tugboat worker, Wesley Henry Coleman, told police he picked up a hitchhiker who claimed to be Howard B. Stickney, also 23, who is wanted for the double slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford C. Barnes last May 24.

Coleman said the hitchhiker told him "my name is Stickney and I am the man who killed those people. I would just as soon kill you, too."

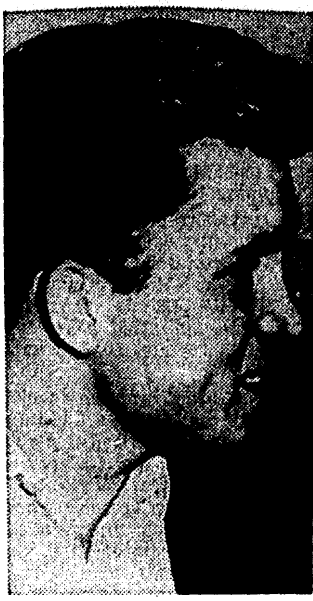

Escapes From Car
Coleman said he escaped by jumping from his car at a service station in nearby Alvin, Tex., and shouting to an attendant:

"Stickney's out there; call the police."

Transportation Tax Slash Voted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate voted Friday to eliminate 710 million dollars a year in transportation taxes. But it held the line on other forms of taxation in passing an extension bill.

Besides extending the 52 per cent corporation income tax rate for another year, the bill would prevent the excise levy on new automobiles from dropping from 10 to 7 per cent and that on auto parts and accessories from 8 to 5 per cent.

It would also prevent excise or sales taxes on cigarettes from dropping from $4 to $3.50 a thousand, on distilled spirits from $10.50 to $9 a gallon and on wines by various amounts.

If these scheduled tax reductions were permitted to go into effect July 1 it would cost the government $2,600,000,000 a year in revenue.

U.S. Demands USSR Act On Soldier Issue

'Immediate' Steps To Get Imprisoned 9 Back Are Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States demanded Friday that Russia take "immediate action" to return to freedom nine American soldiers held by the Soviet puppet regime in East Germany.

Soviet Charge D'Affairs Sergei R. Striganov was summoned to the State Department and informed of the American demand in a 30 minute meeting with Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy.

The move came as several congressmen urged the Department to take whatever steps it could to obtain a release of the Americans held since their helicopter strayed across the Iron Curtain and was forced down last June 7.

The State Department said Murphy "made representations urging that the Soviet military authorities take immediate action under prevailing agreements to effect the release of the United States military personnel and equipment now being held in East Germany."

Striganov refused to comment following the meeting. "I can say nothing," he said on leaving the State Department.

It was the first such effort by the State Department here to arrange release of the soldiers. Soviet authorities in Germany have turned down requests to handle the matter on grounds the soldiers are under jurisdiction of the East German Communist regime.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles charged at his news conference last week that the East Germans kidnapped the soldiers.

Employment Security Law Change Asked

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

BATON ROUGE — Sen. Daniel McGovern of New Orleans is sponsoring legislation which will eliminate protection of the employed woman prior to giving birth to a child.

With several pieces of legislation introduced to amend unemployment compensation, McGovern proposes five changes in the Louisiana employment security law.

The present law stipulates that a woman shall receive compensation while off the job 12 weeks prior to giving birth and six weeks after.

McGovern, a freshman Senator, has the bill on the Senate calendar. It may come up for a vote this week.

His act also provides that:

1. A person who has been disqualified for benefits because he left the job without good cause does not have to prove that he has been paid wages equal to 10 times his weekly benefit amount since his disqualification and that he has not left his last work under disqualifying circumstances.

2. A person who is fired for misconduct shall receive compensation for the week during which he was disqualified and up to six weeks after as determined by the administrator.

3. A person unemployed can be disqualified from compensation to any weeks in which he fails, without good cause, to apply for or to accept suitable work or to return to his customary self-employment plus up to six weeks after.

4. Eliminates any mention of workmen's compensation or retirement payments. The present law provides that an individual is disqualified for any week for which he has received wages in lieu of notice or workmen's compensation or retirement payments.

5. A person who is disqualified for making a false statement while applying for compensation will remain disqualified for only 26 weeks after the fraud instead of 52 weeks.

One Of Giants Of Journalism Is Dead At 75

NEW YORK (AP)—Herbert Bayard Swope, 75, one of the giants of American journalism during the colorful first quarter of this century, died Friday. He was the first newspaperman ever to win a Pulitzer Prize.

Swope won renown as reporter, city editor and executive editor of the old New York World, then one of the nation's greatest metropolitan newspapers. He was a sparkling of its operations for 20 years.

Swope left the World in 1929 shortly before it was merged with the Telegram. He was the first chairman of the New York State Racing Commission when it was set up in 1934 and continued in that post for a decade. He helped bring horse racing to its present status as a half-billion-dollar-a-year industry in New York.

Swope had weathered a hernia operation two months ago. On Monday, at Doctors Hospital, he underwent an operation for diverticulitis, an inflammation and abnormal opening, usually in the intestine.

He died at 1:45 p.m. Friday with his wife and two children at his bedside.

With William Allen White, Swope helped to found the American Society of Newspaper Editors in 1922. He served a term as director of The Associated Press and as president of the old City News Assn., now a part of The AP in New York City.

Little Girl, 4, Victim Of Malnutrition

NOWATA (UPI)—A doctor Friday prescribed "loving care and nourishing food" for a 4-pound, four-year-old blind girl whom authorities said they found "penned up like a dog" in a filthy, bare room.

Tiny Laura Jane Krons was responding to treatment for malnutrition in a Nowata hospital as authorities delayed the filing of possible criminal charges against the child's mother and stepfather pending a complete investigation.

While the child was kept inside, a pack of hound dogs was well-cared for outside, authorities said. Meanwhile, the child's father disclosed he previously had hired a lawyer to begin proceedings to gain custody of the child from its mother. "I know something would happen but I didn't know when or what," Jack Irons, manager of the Nowata Ice Plant, said.

Filly And Starved
Authorities, acting on an anonymous tip, found the child dressed only in a T-shirt lying on the bare concrete floor of a six-by-seven foot shed-like room attached to the house. The floor was covered, in the words of one deputy, by human increment and a tattered blanket.

Negro Youths Stone Police

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Police cars were stoned and one policeman was injured in an hour-long riot Friday of 35 Negroes over the arrest of two Negro youths on traffic charges.

"Little Little Rock," the jeering Negroes chanted. Two shots were fired from a riot gun to keep the angry crowd of Negroes back. A brick was bounced off the head of one white policeman who also was struck with fists.

Eight Negroes, seven men and a 14-year-old girl, were arrested. The Negroes closed in on a white county policeman who started to arrest the two Negro youths. The policeman, Richard Seeger, 25, said he used a short leather strap, called a "slap strap," when the teen-agers resisted arrest.

Seeger said he had arrested Lee Lawrence, 17, for driving a truck without an operator's license, when another Negro driver spun the wheels of his car and sprayed him with gravel.

Seeger reported that when he started to arrest the other youth, Joseph Rodgers, 19, a scuffle broke out and Lawrence joined in the attack on the policeman.

Sherman Adams Departure Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah), who recommended Senate censure of Joseph R. McCarthy in 1954, Friday called for the departure of Sherman Adams from his post as President Eisenhower's No. 1 aide.

Watkins asserted Adams' usefulness "is seriously impaired, if not completely destroyed."

State Requests Court Overturn Race Decision

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana asked the U. S. Supreme Court Friday to overturn a decision knocking out laws designed to force Negroes out of white colleges.

Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion said he filed a petition in the cases involving Louisiana State University, McNeese State College, Southwestern Louisiana Institute and Southeastern Louisiana College.

1956 Law
One 1956 law required all students to present certificates of eligibility, and moral character to all state supported institutions of higher learning.

The certificates must be signed by the high school principal and school superintendent.

A companion law made it a firing offense for school teachers and officials to advocate integration, which would be the effect of signing a certificate for a Negro to attend a white college.

Pollution Hearing Set In Arkansas

The latest in the series of water pollution hearings in connection with oil wastes draining into the Ouachita River will be held at 10 a.m. Monday in the circuit courtroom of the Ouachita County Court House at Camden, Ark.

Monroe's Commissioner of Streets and Parks W. H. D. Rodriguez will represent the city at that hearing, and at another hearing slated for Wednesday at El Dorado, Ark.

The Arkansas Water Pollution Control Commission has called the two sessions, to discuss pollution of the Ouachita River from the Smackover Creek Drainage Basin.

The Louisiana Water Pollution Control Commission urges that "a strong delegation from Monroe and West Monroe" attend the meetings.

Rodriguez predicted that the hearings will complete the studies necessary for enforcing legal requirements to halt the pollution of the Ouachita.

The El Dorado session will get underway at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the First Division Court House of the Union County Court House.

Purpose of Hearing
Purpose of both hearings is to receive evidence from interested persons as to the ways of eliminating industrial waste, sewage and salt water pollution found in the Smackover Creek Drainage Basin and in Ranges 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20 West.

The hearings will determine whether the Arkansas Water Pollution Control Commission should issue an order prohibiting the discharge of the waste material into (Continued On Page 5-A)

Dag Talks With Solh On Issue

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Gunfire broke an uneasy two-day truce while U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld talked to Premier Sami Solh about the Lebanese rebellion.

The Lebanese government was reported pressing Hammarskjöld to recommend a U.N. Emergency Force to patrol the Syrian border. But Hammarskjöld—described as somewhat annoyed—was said to believe the U.N. mission should be solely one of observation.

That would leave border policing to the Lebanese, who have charged the rebels are being helped by armed bands and supplies coming from the neighboring Syrian province of the United Arab Republic.

Eases Off
Fighting that has shaken the pro-Western government of President Camille Chamoun for a month eased off just before Hammarskjöld arrived Thursday. Government supporters and opponents presumably had a tacit agreement to make no major attacks during the secretary general's visit.

But fighting broke out in several parts of the city Friday. Armored cars moved into the Tarik Jaidia quarter to halt street fighting. There was no immediate report of casualties.

Gunfire also echoed over the Zarif Moselem section and the Moezibeth Christian area, adjacent to the Moslem area where opponents of the government are entrenched. The population of Lebanon is approximately half Christian and half Moslem.

Hammarskjöld, who apparently believes his main function is to organize U.N. border observation work rather than to mediate the dispute, was reported somewhat miffed with the government.

Sources close to the secretary general said he had found the total number of armed insurgents here is only about 5,000, although the government had told him at least that many had entered the country from Syria.

Hammarskjöld apparently was under the impression that the government controlled the Lebanese borders but found that insurgents do. Lebanon seeks an armed U.N. force strong enough to seal the mountainous 150-mile frontier against U.A.R. infiltrations. Military experts estimate that would take 5,000 soldiers.

The United Nations has sent 45 observers from seven nations, and 10 Canadians are expected Sunday. Field observation posts have been established at some troubled border zones.

Fight Against Wabash River Flood Is Waged

RUSSELLVILLE, Ill. (UPI)—More than 100 men fought the rampaging Wabash River on a giant levee Friday in a battle to save 45 square miles of rich farm bottomland from ruinous floods.

Another marathon sandbag operation neared its climax downstream near the little town of Westport, Ill., where the Wabash put mounting pressure on a levee protecting 35,000 farm acres. Observers said the Westport situation was critical.

Volunteers and state police kept a round-the-clock watch on the Westport levee as the Wabash neared a 27½ foot crest expected Friday night. A flood wall protecting the city of Vincennes, Ind., across the river from Westport, was expected to hold, although the town was plagued by sewer seepage.

Goldfine To Testify On Adams' Gifts

Millionaire Who Dispensed Favors To Appear July 1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Millionaire Bernard Goldfine, who dispensed gifts and favors to chief White House aide Sherman Adams, has agreed to testify before the House influence investigating subcommittee July 1, it was announced Friday.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) of the House subcommittee investigating government regulatory agencies, disclosed Goldfine's acceptance of the group's invitation to appear with some of his records.

Harris also said "I don't think there is any question" that Federal Trade Commission secrecy rules were violated when former Chairman Edward Howrey sent a memo to Adams giving the name of a complainant against one of Goldfine's textile firms.

Harris said the subcommittee sent the New England textile magnate a telegram asking him to testify in connection with a case involving the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Adams acknowledged contacting the SEC in 1956 in Goldfine's behalf after Goldfine had complained to him about his difficulties with the agency.

He said SEC Chairman Edward N. Gadsby and four other SEC commissioners would testify, along with former SEC Chairman Sinclair Armstrong.

The subcommittee is investigating the SEC's handling of violations of the Securities and Exchange Act by Goldfine's East Boston Co.

Meanwhile, the child's father disclosed he previously had hired a lawyer to begin proceedings to gain custody of the child from its mother. "I knew something would happen but I didn't know when or what," Jack Irons, manager of the Nowata Ice Plant, said.

Fifty And Starved

Authorities, acting on an anonymous tip, found the child dressed only in a T-shirt lying on the bare concrete floor of a six-by-seven foot shed-like room attached to the house. The floor was covered, in the words of one deputy, by human increment and a tattered blanket.

The child's mother and foster father — Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Murphy — were not at home when County Attorney Lloyd Colter and

Negro Youths Stone Police

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Police cars were stoned and one policeman was injured in an hour-long riot Friday of 35 Negro youths on traffic charges.

"Little Little Rock," the jeering Negroes chanted. Two shots were fired from a riot gun to keep the angry crowd of Negroes back. A brick was bounced off the head of one white policeman who also was struck with fists.

Eight Negroes, seven men and a 14-year-old girl, were arrested. The Negroes closed in on a white county policeman who started to arrest the two Negro youths.

The policeman, Richard Seeger, 25, said he used a short leather strap, called a "slap strap," when the teen-agers resisted arrest.

Seeger said he had arrested Lee Lawrence, 17, for driving a truck without an operator's license, when another Negro driver spun the wheels of his car and sprayed him with gravel.

Seeger reported that when he started to arrest the other youth, Joseph Rodgers, 19, a scuffle broke out and Lawrence joined in the attack on the policeman.

'USEFULNESS IMPAIRED'

Sherman Adams Departure Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah), who recommended Senate censure of Joseph R. McCarthy in 1954, Friday called for the departure of Sherman Adams from his post as President Eisenhower's No. 1 aide.

Watkins asserted Adams' usefulness "is seriously impaired, if not completely destroyed."

Press secretary James C. Hagerty said there was no change in Eisenhower's position since his news conference Wednesday. The President then described Adams as invaluable and said: "I need him."

Adams has given no sign he intends to step out in the furor over his relations with wealthy Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

Three more Republican House members called Friday for Adams to resign. One, Rep. Donald E. Tewes (R-Wis.), predicted that "in keeping with the high standards set by the President, Mr. Adams will soon submit his resignation."

Adams has acknowledged contacting two federal agencies on behalf of Goldfine while accepting from him hotel hospitality and other favors. Adams has denied any impropriety.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) of a House commerce subcommittee which is investigating the Adams-Goldfine case told reporters Goldfine will appear before the group July 1. He said Goldfine agreed to bring records along with him.

State Requests Court Overturn Race Decision

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Louisiana asked the U. S. Supreme Court Friday to overturn a decision knocking out laws designed to force Negroes out of white colleges.

Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion said he filed a petition in the cases involving Louisiana State University, McNeese State College, Southwestern Louisiana Institute and Southeastern Louisiana College.

1956 Law

One 1956 law required all students to present certificates of eligibility; and moral character to all state supported institutions of higher learning.

The certificates must be signed by the high school principal and school superintendent.

A companion law made it a firing offense for school teachers and officials to advocate integration, which would be the effect of signing a certificate for a Negro to attend a white college.

Pollution Hearing Set In Arkansas

The latest in the series of water pollution hearings in connection with oil wastes draining into the Ouachita River will be held at 10 a.m. Monday in the circuit courtroom of the Ouachita County Court House at Camden, Ark.

Monroe's Commissioner of Streets and Parks W. H. D. Rodriguez will represent the city at that hearing, and at another hearing slated for Wednesday at El Dorado, Ark.

The Arkansas Water Pollution Control Commission has called the two sessions, to discuss pollution of the Ouachita River from the Smackover Creek Drainage Basin.

The Louisiana Water Pollution Control Commission urges that "a strong delegation from Monroe and West Monroe" attend the meetings.

Purpose of Hearing

Purpose of both hearings is to receive evidence from interested persons as to the ways of eliminating industrial waste, sewage and salt water pollution found in the Smackover Creek Drainage Basin and in Ranges 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20 West.

The hearings will determine whether the Arkansas Water Pollution Control Commission should issue an order prohibiting the discharge of the waste material into

Dag Talks With Solh On Issue

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Gunfire broke an uneasy two-day truce while U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld talked to Premier Sami Solh about the Lebanese rebellion.

The Lebanese government was reported pressing Hammarskjöld to recommend a U.N. Emergency Force to patrol the Syrian border. But Hammarskjöld—described as somewhat annoyed—was said to believe the U.N. mission should be solely one of observation.

That would leave border policing to the Lebanese, who have charged the rebels are being helped by armed bands and supplies coming from the neighboring Syrian province of the United Arab Republic.

Eases Off

Fighting that has shaken the pro-Western government of President Camille Chamoun for a month eased off just before Hammarskjöld arrived Thursday. Government supporters and opponents presumably had a tacit agreement to make no major attacks during the secretary general's visit.

But fighting broke out in several parts of the city Friday. Armed cars moved into the Tarik Jadida quarter to halt street fighting. There was no immediate report of casualties.

Gunfire also echoed over the Zarif Moslem section and the Mozeibeh Christian area, adjacent to the Moslem area where opponents of the government are entrenched. The population of Lebanon is approximately half Christian and half Moslem.

Hammarskjöld, who apparently believes his main function is to organize U.N. border observation work rather than to mediate the dispute, was reported somewhat miffed with the government.

Sources close to the secretary general said he had found the total number of armed insurgents here is only about 5,000, although the government had told him at least that many had entered the country from Syria.

Hammarskjöld apparently was under the impression that the government controlled the Lebanese borders but found that insurgents do. Lebanon seeks an armed U.N. force strong enough to seal the mountainous 150-mile frontier against U.A.R. infiltrations. Military experts estimate that would take 5,000 soldiers.

The United Nations has sent 45 observers from seven nations, and 10 Canadians are expected Sunday. Field observation posts have been established at some troubled border zones.

Fight Against Wabash River Flood Is Waged

RUSSELLVILLE, Ill. (UPI) — More than 100 men fought the rampaging Wabash River on a giant levee Friday in a battle to save 45 square miles of rich farm bottomland from ruinous floods.

Another marathon sandbag operation neared its climax downstream near the little town of Westport, Ill., where the Wabash put mounting pressure on a levee protecting 35,000 farm acres. Observers said the Westport situation was critical.

Volunteers and state police kept a round-the-clock watch on the Westport levee as the Wabash neared a 27½ foot crest expected Friday night. A flood wall protecting the city of Vincennes, Ind., across the river from Westport, was expected to hold, although the town was plagued by sewer seepage.

ECONOMIC WARFARE

Red Boss Finds Dulles Support

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Nikita Khrushchev has just come up with new support for Secretary Dulles' contention that it would be reckless to discount the Soviet declaration of economic warfare.

The Soviet dictator has been described in the West as on shaky political ground in ignoring primitive communism's gobbledygook to establish business methods in agriculture.

Heretofore the machine tractor stations, on which the farm collectives had to rely for cultivation, represented power which could be granted or withheld for political purposes, and so were the vehicles for political control from the top.

To promote his program for equalizing the U.S. production, Khrushchev is turning the machinery over to direct collective ownership.

Under the old system where political control was paramount, the central government arbitrarily took a fixed amount of collective produce each year. If bad weather or production mistakes cut the supply, a collective just had to get along with what was left, if any.

Now, instead of taking the produce, the government will buy its share and so the collectives will have a chance to buy what they need, making the whole agricultural economy more viable.

Competition for low-cost, efficient production will be encouraged under a new pricing system which apparently will follow business instead of political practice. By this means Khrushchev obviously is trying to enlist rather than drag the farmers in the fight to put the Soviet Union ahead.

This is a drive toward a balanced economy, to set a pace for Soviet agriculture comparable to the emphasis on heavy industry—hitherto mostly for war purposes—and science.

The new measure was put through the Communist Central Committee quickly and quietly after Western reports that the meeting presaged trouble for Khrushchev. If there was trouble, it was not manifest, and must have been in unannounced fields.

Dulles explained the strategy to the Senate Finance Committee Thursday as a design for economic warfare: to be able to export and gain dominance over other countries first economically and then politically; to isolate the United States and subject her to economic strangulation.

TVA Reports Payment To Government

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority reported today another 10 million dollar payment to the federal treasury from receipts from electric power sales. It said the payment sent treasury receipts from this source past a quarter of a billion dollars.

The agency said its financial plans for the current fiscal year contemplated the 10 million dollar payment on the assumption that money for increased generating capacity would be available through revenue bond financing.

"Though no bond financing authorization has yet been approved by Congress," the TVA board said, "final decision to make this payment was reached with the expectation that revenue bond legislation will be enacted and that funds from that source will be available for financing necessary new power generating capacity."

Thus far TVA has paid $250,131,519 from power revenues to the treasury, of which $65,072,500 represents redemption of bonds.

Disturbed Child Clinic To Be Held

RUSTON (Special) — Emotionally disturbed children in the classroom will be the subject for discussion at a free clinic here July 10-11 by a three-man team of psychiatric specialists.

Offered as a service of the special education center of Louisiana Tech, the lecture program will be conducted in the air-conditioned First Baptist Church of Ruston. The public is invited.

Presenting the talks will be Winborn E. Davis, director of training and research of the state department of hospitals, Baton Rouge, who will serve as captain of the team; Dr. E. J. Coda, clinical director of the guidance center in New Orleans; and G. Kinsey Stewart, former field representative and assistant director of the Louisiana Assn. for Mental Health, now at Tulane.

John P. Campbell, director of the special education center at Tech, said the purposes of the two-day meeting will be to identify emotionally disturbed children, ascertain the causes of their trouble and help parents and teachers to overcome these difficulties. The emotionally disturbed child is not to be confused with the mentally retarded child, it was pointed out.

All three of the conference speakers have had many years of experience in mental health work and allied fields. Chairman Davis, a native of Heflin, received the B. A. degree in pre-medicine from Louisiana State University and completed technical training at the Naval Medical School at Bethesda, Md. He received the degree of master of social welfare in psychiatry from Tulane University. Before assuming his present position with the state department of hospitals, he was administrator of the Louisiana Evaluation Center for Exceptional Children in New Orleans, setting up state-wide clinical services for all types of exceptional children and planning with parents for their training, treatment and care.

Dr. Coda, who obtained medical training at Philadelphia, came to Louisiana in 1954 as a staff psychologist at the guidance center in New Orleans. The next year he was appointed clinical director, the post he holds there at present. In 1957, he was appointed medical director at the Louisiana Evaluation Center for Exceptional Children in New Orleans on

Junior Deputies On Tour Of LTI

The Louisiana Training Institute for Boys is playing host to 75 Junior Deputies from Amite, who are making their annual tour of the institution.

The Junior Deputies made the 200 mile trip by school bus yesterday and arrived here around noon.

Ty Lanier, deputy sheriff of Parish, accompanied the boys on the trip and will supervise them during their visit.

They are scheduled to leave sometime this afternoon.

The boys are members of the Junior Deputies Sheriff's League School of Tangipahoa Parish which is sponsored by the National Sheriff's Association and the Louisiana Peace Officers in conjunction with the Louisiana Sheriff's Office.

Lanier said the boys will make a tour of the institution today and will leave this afternoon. Yesterday they participated in soft ball games and a swimming meet, he said.

Setup Explained
The school, Lanier explained, has 88 boys from the ages of 11 through 15 enrolled. He said that along with their regular studies they are taught judo, law procedure, small arms firing and many other activities that are taught in a regular police school. Lanier said that the school lasts for one year and all that graduate receive deputy badges. He pointed out further that the school equips the boys with deputy caps and arm patches. They buy their own khaki uniforms.

The purpose of the visit to LTI is to show the boys what the institution is like and what happens to boys that are sent there, he said. "I think it is a good idea because out of 800 boys that have gone through the Junior Deputy School only four have gotten into trouble," he added.

Tangipahoa Parish has two schools, Lanier said, one at the north end of the parish and the other at the southern end. For all the trips that are made, we combine the two and take both classes.

Out of all the trips, that the boys make, "this one" is the trip they like best, Lanier said.

Rites Today For 3 Killed In Accident

Final rites for the three members of the Z. E. Black family who were fatally injured Thursday afternoon when their car and a freight train collided at the Jewel Street crossing in West Monroe will be conducted today. Services will be held at 10 a.m. at the Pilgrim Holiness Church for A. J. Black, 19, Nora "Dickie" Black, 15, and Shirley Evelyn Black, 11. Burial will be in Hasley Cemetery by Hixson Brothers Funeral Home.

A fourth member of the family, Z. A. "Sonny" Black, 13, who was also in the car, is hospitalized at St. Francis Hospital with cuts and bruises. His condition is termed satisfactory.

The fifth occupant of the car, Jimmy Lee Purdy, 11, escaped unharmed.

The two sisters died instantly, and their brother succumbed about four hours later at St. Francis Hospital.

Besides their injured brother and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Z. E. Black, the sisters and brother are survived by a sister, Linda, 7, and another brother, Tommy, 2.

Passman Backs Compromise Bill

Rep. Otto E. Passman yesterday announced support of the compromise cotton legislative proposal, which has been reported to the House of Representatives by the agricultural committee, as part of a general farm bill.

However, Passman said he is disappointed that the administration's farm policies "prevented" the presentation of a better bill, with sound, long-range features. But the measure presented, Passman added, does represent a step toward reversal of the present trend to continually reduce cotton acreage.

"There is a serious question," Passman pointed out, "whether Secretary Benson and President Eisenhower will approve even this modified legislation."

Coin Operated Machines Are Stolen In WM

Three coin-operated paper racks were stolen in West Monroe late Thursday night and early Friday morning, West Monroe Police reported yesterday.

The police said one of the racks was recovered from a ditch on the west end of Stella Street, but that the other two have not been recovered.

A total of slightly more than $5 was believed in the racks. Detective Jim Cullipher said the racks were taken from in front of Gentry's Grocery, Walt's Cafe and Prestwood's Grocery.

Cullipher added that there has been a "rash of rack thefts in the past, and it seems to be starting again."

Finish Work On Sewerage System Here

The $72,000 sewerage district E-1 work was completed yesterday, providing sewer service for residents of the Wilson-Atkinson-Thomas Street areas off the Wigginsboro Road.

Commissioner of Finance and Utilities H. W. McSherry announced that persons who live in that area where the construction took place now can tie on to the system.

The project, paid for by sewer district financing in which each property owner on the route contributed his share of the expense, will be connected in time to the sewer district E, just started.

City Engineer Wade Sanders, in describing the boundaries of the new district E, said yesterday that it extends 155 feet east of Atkinson, 150 feet west of Wilson, is bounded on the north by the Wigginsboro Road and on the south by Thomas Avenue.

District E will eventually tie in with laterals of E-1, to be east. All that remain to be done on E-1 is some street work and cleaning up operations, officials said.

New Iberia Is In Line For Rights Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department said Friday it has received a complaint from Homer Hebert, a notary public, that federal civil rights violations involving law enforcement officials have occurred at New Iberia, La.

The department said its civil rights division is looking into the matter.

The department declined to give details on the complaint, but said Hebert had submitted affidavits alleging that local police had been guilty of misconduct and that the sheriff's office had used its power to intimidate voters.

However, the sheriff's office, police school officials and Negro leaders at New Iberia said they knew of no such incidents.

Negro high school principal J. B. Henderson said he knew of no denial of any civil rights "or anything like that."

Solon Grateful For Legislation

Gratitude for the recent prompt Congressional action in authorizing an increase by $4 billion in the amount of mortgage insurance the Federal Housing Administration may have outstanding has been expressed by representatives of the housing industry in northeast Louisiana to Rep. Otto E. Passman, Passman said yesterday.

This legislative authorization, Passman explained, does not involve dollar expenditure of loans by the FHA, but only extends the limit on the outstanding amount of private loans FHA is permitted to insure.

Passman noted that by insuring private loans, the housing agency reduces the lending risk, and thus aims at lower down payments and interest advantages for the home buyer.

Gov. Collins Names Group For Guard

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Leroy Collins, chairman of the National Governors' Conference, Tuesday appointed a four-member committee to keep the states advised of army plans to slash National Guard strength.

Gov. Joe Foss of South Dakota will serve as chairman of the special committee. Other members are Govs. Marvin Griffin of Georgia, Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Milward L. Simpson of Wyoming.

The governors conference at its recent Miami Beach meeting adopted a resolution urging maintenance of a National Guard of not less than 100,000 men, and that no reorganization be effected without prior consultation with the states.

In letters to each of the special committee members, Collins said he had been advised that the army has directed the chief of the National Guard Bureau to proceed with plans for a "new troop basis" which would mean a 30 per cent reduction in existing National Guard units.

"It is my understanding that this plan will be presented to the states around July 1," Collins wrote.

"In light of the governors conference resolution, I think it well for us to have a special committee of governors to keep a close watch on these developments and to advise our executive committee."

He suggested the special committee sit in on a Washington meeting of the Adjutants General Assn. July 14 when the effect on the states of the guard reorganization plan will be analyzed and discussed.

TVA Reports Payment To Government

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority reported today another 10 million dollar payment to the federal treasury from receipts from electric power sales. It said the payment sent treasury receipts from this source past a quarter of a billion dollars.

Thus far TVA has paid $250,131,519 from power revenues to the treasury, of which $65,072,500 represents redemption of bonds.

Campbell, director of the special education center at Tech, said the purpose of the two-day meeting will be to identify emotionally disturbed children, ascertain the causes of their trouble and help parents and teachers to overcome these difficulties. The emotionally disturbed child is not to be confused with the mentally retarded child, it was pointed out.

All three of the conference speakers have had many years of experience in mental health work and allied fields. Chairman Davis, a native of Heflin, received the B. A. degree in pre-medicine from Louisiana State University and completed technical training at the Naval Medical School at Bethesda, Md. He received the degree of master of social welfare in psychiatry from Tulane University. Before assuming his present position with the state department of hospitals, he was administrator of the Louisiana Evaluation Center for Exceptional Children in New Orleans, setting up state-wide clinical services for all types of exceptional children and planning with parents for their training, treatment and care.

Dr. Coda, who obtained medical training at Philadelphia, came to Louisiana in 1954 as a staff psychologist at the guidance center in New Orleans. The next year he was appointed clinical director, the post he holds there at present. In 1957, he was appointed medical director at the Louisiana Evaluation Center for Exceptional Children in New Orleans on

RUBBER LOOT
CHRISTINE, N. D. — (UPI) — A burglar who broke into a Christine liquor store was not expected to gain much from five personal checks he carried off along with considerable amount of liquor. The checks had been returned to the store owner after they bounced at the local bank.

New Iberia Is In Line For Rights Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department said Friday it has received a complaint from Homer Hebert, a notary public, that federal civil rights violations involving law enforcement officials have occurred at New Iberia, La.

The department said its civil rights division is looking into the matter. The department declined to give details on the complaint, but said Hebert had submitted affidavits alleging that local police had been guilty of misconduct and that the sheriff's office had used its power to intimidate voters.

However, the sheriff's office, police, school officials and Negro leaders at New Iberia said they knew of no such incidents. Negro high school principal J. B. Henderson said he knew of no denial of any civil rights "or anything like that."

Solon Grateful For Legislation

Gratitude for the recent prompt Congressional action in authorizing an increase by $4 billion in the amount of mortgage insurance the Federal Housing Administration may have outstanding has been expressed by representatives of the housing industry in northeast Louisiana to Rep. Otto E. Passman, Passman said yesterday.

This legislative authorization, Passman explained, does not involve dollar expenditure of loans by the FHA, but only extends the limit on the outstanding amount of private loans FHA is permitted to insure.

Passman noted that by insuring private loans, the housing agency reduces the lending risk, and thus aims at lower down payments and interest advantages for the home buyer.

FROM AMITE

Junior Deputies On Tour Of LTI

The Louisiana Training Institute for Boys is playing host to 75 Junior Deputies from Amite, who are making their annual tour of the Institution.

The Junior Deputies made the 208 mile trip by school bus yesterday and arrived here around noon.

Ty Lanier, deputy sheriff of Parish, accompanied the boys on the trip and will supervise them during their visit.

They are scheduled to leave sometime this afternoon.

The boys are members of the Junior Deputies Sheriff's League School of Tangipahoa Parish which is sponsored by the National Sheriff's Association and the Louisiana Peace Officers in conjunction with the Louisiana Sheriff's Office.

Lanier said the boys will make a tour of the Institution today and will leave this afternoon. Yesterday they participated in soft ball games and a swimming meet, he said.

Setup Explained
The school, Lanier explained, has 88 boys from the ages of 11 through 15 enrolled. He said that along with their regular studies they are taught judo, law procedure, small arm firing and many other activities that are taught in a regular police school. Lanier said that the school lasts for one year and all that graduate receive deputy badges. He pointed out further that the school equips the boys with deputy caps and arm patches. They buy their own khaki uniforms.

The purpose of the visit to LTI is to show the boys what the institution is like and what happens to boys that are sent there, he said. "I think it is a good idea because out of 800 boys that have gone through the Junior Deputy School only four have gotten into trouble," he added.

Tangipahoa Parish has two schools, Lanier said, one at the north end of the parish and the other at the southern end. For all the trips that are made, we combine the two and take both classes.

Out of all the trips that the boys make, "this one" is the trip they like best, Lanier said.

Rites Today For 3 Killed In Accident

Final rites for the three members of the Z. E. Black family who were fatally injured Thursday afternoon when their car and a freight train collided at the Jewel Street crossing in West Monroe will be conducted today. Services will be held at 10 a.m. at the Pilgrim Holiness Church for A. J. Black, 19, Nora "Dickie" Black, 15, and Shirley Evelyn Black, 11. Burial will be in Hasley Cemetery by Hixson Brothers Funeral Home.

A fourth member of the family, Z. A. "Sonny" Black, 13, who was also in the car, is hospitalized at St. Francis Hospital with cuts and bruises. His condition is termed satisfactory.

The fifth occupant of the car, Jimmy Lee Purdy, 11, escaped unhurt.

The two sisters died instantly, and their brother succumbed about four hours later at St. Francis Hospital.

Besides their injured brother and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Z. E. Black, the sisters and brother are survived by a sister, Linda, 7, and another brother, Tommy, 2.

Passman Backs Compromise Bill

Rep. Otto E. Passman yesterday announced support of the compromise cotton legislative proposal, which has been reported to the House of Representatives by the agricultural committee, as part of a general farm bill.

However, Passman said he is disappointed that the administration's farm policies "prevented" the presentation of a better bill, with sound, long-range features. But the measure presented, Passman added, does represent a step toward reversal of the present trend to continually reduce cotton acreage.

"There is a serious question," Passman pointed out, "whether Secretary Benson and President Eisenhower will approve even this modified legislation."

Figures On Pay Boost Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — With President Eisenhower's signature of a bill giving government workers a pay boost, the Civil Service Commission Friday announced figures from which the payroll increases can be estimated by states and some cities.

The figures include postal employees who received an approximate 10 per cent increase in a bill signed May 27. The bill signed Friday gives classified employees a 10 per cent boost. Both increases are retroactive to about the first of the year.

The following listing gives the number of postal and white collar employees by states and some metropolitan areas. The increased payroll in each instance will be approximately 10 per cent of the payroll figure given. The amount of retroactive pay to be distributed will be slightly less than 50 per cent of the annual increase.

The figures include:
Arkansas — 5,545 postal, 6,878 white collar, $52,000,000.
Louisiana — 6,716 postal; 12,407 white collar, $88,000,000.
Mississippi — 4,565 postal; 19,217 white collar, $64,000,000.
Mobile, Ala. — 564 postal; 6,926 white collar, $26,000,000.
New Orleans — 2,146 postal; 6,777 white collar, $41,000,000.

Coin Operated Machines Are Stolen In WM

Three coin-operated paper racks were stolen in West Monroe late Thursday night and early Friday morning, West Monroe Police reported yesterday.

The police said one of the racks was recovered from a ditch on the west end of Stella Street, but that the other two have not been recovered.

A total of slightly more than $5 was believed in the racks. Detective Jim Cullipher said the racks were taken from in front of Gentry's Grocery, Walt's Cafe and Prestwood's Grocery.

Cullipher added that there has been a "rash of rack thefts in the past, and it seems to be starting again."

Gov. Collins Names Group For Guard

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Leroy Collins, chairman of the National Governors' Conference, Tuesday appointed a four-member committee to keep the states advised of army plans to slash National Guard strength.

Gov. Joe Foss of South Dakota will serve as chairman of the special committee. Other members are Govs. Marvin Griffin of Georgia, Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Milward L. Simpson of Wyoming.

The governors conference at its recent Miami Beach meeting adopted a resolution urging maintenance of a National Guard of not less than 100,000 men, and that no reorganization be effected without prior consultation with the states.

In letters to each of the special committee members, Collins said he had been advised that the army has directed the chief of the National Guard Bureau to proceed with plans for a "new troop basis" which would mean a 30 per cent reduction in existing National Guard units.

"It is my understanding that this plan will be presented to the states around July 1," Collins wrote.

"In light of the governors conference resolution, I think it well for us to have a special committee of governors to keep a close watch on these developments and to advise our executive committee."

He suggested the special committee sit in on a Washington meeting of the Adjutants General Assn. July 14 when the effect on the states of the guard reorganization plan will be analyzed and discussed.

Award Contract

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Army Engineers Friday awarded a $202,408 contract to Valley Construction Co., Columbus, Miss., for construction of a 300-seat permanent chapel at Lelesier Air Force Base, Miss.

In bid opening, R. A. Jensen, will serve as chairman of the special committee. Other members are Govs. Marvin Griffin of Georgia, Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Milward L. Simpson of Wyoming.

Salute To The CAA

The federal agency which has contributed much to civil aviation in America, the Civil Aeronautics Administration, steps out of its "teens" on June 23 when it celebrates its 20th anniversary.

The civil aeronautics act of 1938, which created the CAA, went a long way toward helping civil aviation solve its economic and technical problems. It assured the public of the benefits of a strong and healthy air transport system and a sound civilian aviation industry in the United States.

Shouldering the responsibility of promoting safety in aviation, the CAA has had to adjust to many changes since its inception, including "going to war" with an America awakened to the decisiveness of aviation when employed as a tool of destruction.

Technical developments and scientific progress in the CAA's 20 years as the guardian of the nation's airways and aircraft have kept the nation hopping. With increasing air traffic, higher and higher speeds and larger and larger planes, the specialists of this unique agency have been called upon, again and again, to push out the frontiers. It has been their job to give us safe airplanes, safe airmen, safe airports, safe aids to navigation and safe control of air traffic.

Continually under-manned because the industry keeps growing faster and faster, the CAA, with its employees scattered throughout the United States, Alaska, Hawaii and most of the free world, has given us meritorious service and achievement.

Flying today is termed one of the safest methods of transportation in existence, much safer in fact than driving the family car.

A measure of the CAA's accomplishments in making and keeping the air-craft and the crowded airways of the nation safe during these 20 years can best be measured by noting that in 1938, the year the Civil Aeronautics Administration came into existence, there were more airline accidents and passenger fatalities in the 480 million passenger miles flown than there were in the 25.2 billion passenger miles flown in the year just ended. In 1938 many life insurance policies were invalid for air travel. Now the air traveler can buy large amounts of additional trip insurance any time he takes a scheduled air flight.

The next 20 years will undoubtedly dwarf the last 20 in technical advancements and volume of air traffic. It is gratifying to know that the CAA is already moving with vigor into the jet age and planning for the space age to come.

For the many accomplishments of CAA and for the efforts of its devoted employees, we salute this fine organization. We suggest that special honors be accorded to the CAA and its workers on its 20th anniversary—June 23.

Travel Tax Vote

Evidence that the sentiment of the people of this country, particularly those in the south and west, is strongly in favor of repeal of the wartime federal tax on travel was found in the senate vote Thursday to kill this tax.

Despite opposition by President Eisenhower and both Republican and Democratic leaders in the senate, that group voted 50 to 25 to kill the three per cent tax on freight and 50 to 35 to repeal the companion 10 per cent levy on passenger traffic. Both Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Republican leader William F. Knowland of California voted against the repeal.

The two votes were the first suffered by the administration and the Republican and Democratic leaders in their efforts to keep the house bill free of revenue-cutting amendments in the senate. Thirty-three Democrats and 26 Republicans voted for repeal.

Since the repeal constitutes an amendment to a revenue measure which originated in the house, the bill must be returned to the house for acceptance or rejection. It is to be hoped that the house will accept the senate action.

There are many ways in which the repeal of the travel and freight tax would be advantageous. In fact, its effects might be so beneficial that it would play a big part in terminating the present recession and in starting an upward trend in the economy.

Southern and western states would benefit by the repeal. Western and southern senators contended, in their arguments, that the freight tax has always discriminated against their sections because of long rail hauls. Because charges are greater for long hauls than for short and because the tax increases in proportion to the other charges, the southern and western states have paid more than a proportionate share of this tax.

Foes of the freight levy argued that it is different from all other excise taxes in that it applies to everything and pyramids each time something is shipped.

The passenger travel tax has been branded a "see America last" tax, as it applies only to domestic travel. It diverts travel to foreign carriers and to foreign countries, to the detriment of the domestic travel business. This is illogical and works against the economy of the nation.

The principal original reason for the tax no longer exists. This excise tax was a World War II imposition when the forms of transportation were strained to their utmost in carrying priority war traffic. Now these carriers—the airlines, railroads and motor carriers—have excess capacity and need increased traffic in order to continue to serve the public adequately.

One of the tragedies of our taxation system is that, once a tax has been enacted, even as an emergency or wartime measure, it seems virtually impossible to get rid of it. Even the foes of the repeal did not argue that the transportation tax is either just or legitimate. They argued only that there should be no tax-cutting.

Even though the loss of revenue may temporarily create a troublesome situation for the administration in adjusting its financial affairs, there is every reason to believe that the good results of the repeal will far out-weigh the bad. This apparently was the conviction of the senators who voted for repeal.

HOLMES ALEXANDER

Resentment Against High Prices And Taxes Rising

LANSING, Mich. — On August 15, 1896, there was that editorial in the "What's the Matter with Kansas?"—which stirred up the animosities and made William Allen White a household name. At a little noticed meeting in this mid-west capital city a small group of determined men raised a similar question about their own State. They called themselves the executive committee of the Citizens' Alliance To Build Michigan. They asked, "What's wrong with Michigan?"

It was not, as with White, an oratorical question. It was curious, plaintive, with undertones of anxiety and anger. Political revolts often begin in the provinces and march upon the metropolitan centers of power. This happened in France where Corsica and Algeria signaled what would happen in Paris. Some of the same elements of dissatisfaction at the grass roots are present, though in peaceful form, in the Michigan provinces. No man can say what will happen, but the national resentment against high prices, high taxes and costly bureaucracy are all represented. The political powder trail leads to the powder keg. All that's lacking seems to be the spark.

The story begins last winter when a portly, good-humored manufacturer named Larry Love traveled from his home in Battle Creek (Mich.) to South Bend (Indiana) to find out why he had failed to win a bidding competition on some fabricated steel pro-

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Many Reportedly Richer In Presents Than Adams

Everybody who writes news, including members of the Congressional committees. For it is a common practice among politicians and others to accept various kinds of hospitality, and as long as the government limits a per diem expense account to the ridiculous amount of $12 which is hardly enough to pay for a hotel room in a large city, much less for food, drink, entertainment and incidental expenses, some of the officials will have to accept hospitality if they are to get around. How about all the Senators and members of the House of Representatives who travel about the country making speeches at from $300 to $1,500 a piece and who accept excellent hospitality under the circumstances? How about those who travel on airplane junks or go to the openings of new hotels in all parts of the world? The real truth of the matter is first, that this is a campaign year and if the Democrats can get anything on the Republicans, or vice versa, it will be done. Secondly, Sherman Adams is an extraordinarily unpopular man. So we see John Adams and John Quincy Adams, his forebears. There must have been quite a bit of the gay spark in John Quincy Adams because when he was the American minister at St. Petersburg, he did quite well by himself and his country. In fact, all the Adamses, from the beginning, have been notable, if not exciting men. In an earlier generation, Henry Adams and Brooks Adams were particularly startling for the unorthodoxy of their views.

NEW YORK (AP)—Wives are always writing notes to themselves headed: "Things to do."

Every now and then, however, when the foibles of civilization become oppressive, mankind ought to compose a different kind of list—a list of things we could all do without, a catalogue of expendables.

Here are a few personal nominations: The Russian problem, the Algerian problem, the Middle East problem — and the middle age problem.

natural resources, favorable geographical location and skilled manpower pool. Michigan has also been strong in the manufacture of chemicals, steel and appliances. But recently there has been a marked trek to other Great Lakes States by General Motors, the Jones & Laughlin steel firm, the Wyandotte and Dow Chemical Companies, as well as General Electric.

In sum, the national recession and the surplus of automobiles do not account for all of Michigan's economic troubles. With the population growing and jobs becoming more scarce, this State is accumulating a chronic and built-in depression.

Mr. Love wrote letters to about 250 persons and called a meeting last May in Lansing. Local and State newspapers covered the gathering, which consisted of 120 small businessmen, merchants, contractors and farmers. Some very simple, two-part questionnaires were circulated but not tabulated at the time. I have been able to obtain these tabulations, hitherto unpublished, and now put them into the record. Of the 120 persons present, 80 returned their questionnaires but 11 of these were blank. Out of 69 sets of answers then, we get these results:

1. "I believe that the long-term decline of Michigan is due to the following: High taxes (30). Bad business climate (22). CIO influence on Governor G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams (13). Governor Williams himself (13). High wages (14). Labor dictates too much (13) and the rest scattered."

2. "I believe the positive steps to be taken should be: Curb CIO (20). Pass a right-to-work bill (14). Defeat Governor Williams (13). Improve industrial climate (9) and the rest scattered. Our column is not enough to analyze all this. There is enough material at hand to raise such questions in later pieces as: Is Soapy Williams in trouble in his quest for a sixth gubernatorial term and for his big bid for the White House? Is there something politically meaningful in the seeming Michigan coalition between farmers? Is Labor, along with all its other troubles of Congressional investigation and general unemployment, under indictment for causing bad industrial climate in this highly-organized State?"

DR. CRANE SAYS

Graduate Still Unsure Of Work

It takes a livewire in the pulpit to electrify a congregation. And the pulpit is the first test of a great pastor. "You must of a great church," runs a truism some clergymen still have ignored. In Charley's case today, how would you advise him?

Case Y-342: Charley R., aged 22, is a college athlete who recently graduated.

"Dr. Crane, I am still uncertain about my life's work," he confessed.

"Sometimes I think I ought to be a school teacher. Then I feel maybe I should go to seminary and study to be a clergyman."

"I got married six months ago, so I am in need of a job, although my wife works as a secretary."

"She is a popular girl and musically talented, too. She would be a great asset to me as a minister, as well as a teacher."

"Which do you think I should become — teacher or preacher?"

Both of these careers are vital to the progress of civilization, but a man with public speaking talent and the prestige among teenagers which a college athlete yields, can probably do more good in the pulpit.

For we have a more acute shortage of preachers than of teachers! A teacher deals with 30 or 40 youngsters for 9 months. But a pastor handles 300 to 10,000 people all the year around.

In the usual church auditorium you will find all the thinking people of the community, including the editor and the banker, physician, dentist and lawyer, accountant and teacher, business man and farmer, housewife and nurse.

These men and women need a re-charging of their spiritual batteries, so the pastor has a unique chance to increase the effectiveness of ALL other leaders.

School teachers work with the children but lack this wide opportunity to stimulate the thinking of the present adult pace-setters of local opinion.

But it takes a livewire in the pulpit to electrify a congregation. So clergymen should not only be consecrated men with a great desire to uplift mankind spiritually, but should be excellent speakers.

The yearning to be a prophet is not enough. Clergymen have their greatest opportunity while standing in the pulpit, sermonizing.

And sermonizing is distinctly a public speaking job. It demands good applied psychology and the narrative or anecdotal formula for a speech, which Christ demonstrated superbly.

As an orator, every clergyman should never be worse than "good," even on his "off" days. He should then rise to "better" and occasionally ring the bell with a "best" rating as a speaker.

But a clergyman also needs to know how to harmonize with divergent groups, so he should rate high in "H-R" or "Human Relations."

If possible, he should be athletic and preferably have won a college letter in some sport in order to properly impress the local teenagers of his parish.

Too long the stereotype of a clergyman has been an anemic looking fellow with horn rimmed glasses who spouts 5 - syllable words.

The modern successful cleric looks like a successful business man and preferably should have served as a newspaper boy in high school so he doesn't make the silly mistake of always indicting business men as "gougers" of mankind.

Impractical clergy have too long stood on the outside, looking on business with no first hand knowledge of the troubles our confederates (taxes and red tape forms have imposed on business leaders, who furnish the employment for the entire community and thereby underwrite the upkeep of all our churches.

And clergymen should have talented wives who also know "H-R."

If your clergymen is not a talented orator, then give him a booklet "Public Platform Strategy," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit). It will help him become a livewire in the pulpit.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper enclosing a long three cent stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Mushrooms Are Risky Business

Every time I see people gathering mushrooms, I hope they know what they are doing. It is risky business; even the experts have been known to make mistakes.

The Amanita genus is the poisonous variety. A muscaria produces immediate symptoms but the outcome usually is good because a suitable antidote (atropine) is available. This fungus is prevalent in the woods during autumn. It has an orange or scarlet top dotted with white or yellowish wartlike patches.

One or two hours after eating it, signs of poisoning begin with profuse sweating, salivation, and tearing. Shortly thereafter, the bowel goes into high gear, with cramping and diarrhea. The individual may collapse and develop paralysis of the respiratory muscles unless atropine is administered.

A. Verna, brunnescent, and phalloides cause the delayed type of poisoning and are responsible for 80 per cent of the fatalities, because there is no antidote. The first two of these boobytraps thrive in all parts of this country from June to October. They vary in color from pure white to dull brown and usually are found under oak trees or in shady places.

Diarrhea and vomiting come on 6 to 15 hours after ingestion. Symptoms subside shortly thereafter but the toxin in the mushroom acts on the liver, kidneys, and heart. The skin turns yellow and uremia ensues.

Leave mushroom picking to the professionals or those with commercial beds. There are too many exceptions to the old beliefs that edible fungi peel or that the poisonous varieties are bright colored and larnish silver spores when boiled together. Otherwise this vegetable is delicious and nutritious.

TESTING FOR HARDENING. W. M. writes: How are the arteries tested for hardening?

Reply: By viewing the blood vessels in back of the eyes with an ophthalmoscope and X-rays. Various disturbances are caused by arteriosclerosis. When these are found, the physician assumes that the arteries are hardened.

PSORIASIS AND ARTHRITIS. S. F. writes: Please write about arthritic psoriasis.

Reply: A small percentage of individuals with psoriasis develop arthritis. The two conditions are said to be related but some authorities believe their combined appearance is coincidental. This has led to the concept that psoriasis is the outward manifestation of a disease that affects the skin in the majority, the joints in some, and both in a few.

Sherman Adams Departure Asked

The six-man committee acted unanimously. Watkins was called to the White House to talk with Eisenhower after the committee's recommendations had been approved 67-22 by the Senate.

Harris, at a news conference, took issue with a White House contention that Goldfine didn't receive preferred treatment from federal agencies.

Harris declined to say whether he believed Adams had violated any law. Asked whether the matter was being turned over to the attorney general, who reviews cases for possible prosecution, Harris said several federal agencies were getting transcripts of the subcommittee proceedings as a matter of routine. He said that includes the Justice Department.

"In due time," he added, the subcommittee will decide whether to refer any of its cases specifically to the attorney general. Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss.), who sat in on Harris' news conference, said he thinks Adams' actions "have reflected on the integrity of the administration... if I were president, I would give him the opportunity to resign, and if he did not, take the necessary action."

A number of Republicans have called for Adams' resignation.

Sen. GOP leader William F. Knowland of California questioned Thursday whether Adams has not outlived his usefulness.

Watkins, a quiet-spoken, former Mormon missionary, noted that both Adams and Eisenhower have acknowledged it was imprudent for Adams to contact federal agencies on behalf of his old friend Goldfine while accepting from the wealthy Boston industrialist hotel hospitality and other favors.

"His action was not only 'imprudent,' in my judgment, but it was a violation of his own standard of ethics required of federal officials and particularly those in the President's official family," Watkins said.

"In the light of the record as measured by the high standards of ethics set by both the President and Mr. Adams, there seems to be no other possible conclusion than that Adams should resign."

Similarly, Rep. Charles B. Brownson (R-Ind.) said he hopes Adams will develop "the judgment sensitivity and courage to resign."

Civil Rights Suit Shift Is Asked Here

Monroe Negro attorney James Sharp yesterday asked that the location of his Civil Rights suit be moved from the courtroom of the Ouachita Parish Courthouse to the federal courtroom in the Monroe Post Office.

Another motion filed simultaneously with it was to dismiss his demand for damages of $25,000 which had charged that he was thwarted in his attempts to represent Dr. John I. Reddix, Monroe Negro.

On Wednesday, Sharp asked the court for permission to withdraw as counsel in a civil rights case, in which he was representing Dr. Reddix against Ouachita Parish Registrar of Voters Mrs. Mae Luckey.

Dr. Reddix plans to leave the state permanently. However, he will be subpoenaed as a witness at a pretrial conference June 30 in Monroe.

In his motion filed yesterday, Sharp reiterated his demands for all equity relief originally asked and requested that this be decided on by the court, not a jury. He also asked for a permanent injunction ordering Mrs. Luckey and her successors to refrain from discriminating against him and others because of race or color.

Trial Location
In Shreveport, Federal Clerk of Court Alton Curtis, when contacted last night, said that the trial location had been set for the Ouachita Parish Courthouse because the courtroom there was air conditioned, and the one in the federal building was not.

He explained that he filed the motion to dismiss the claim for damages, since there is an area of doubt in the law as to whether he could recover damages. "I'm not too interested in damages, I simply want to have the question of law decided on as to how the registrar should conduct her office," Sharp revealed.

Truck And Auto
In Collision Here
A wreck causing estimated damage at less than a $100 occurred yesterday in West Monroe when a large concrete-mixer truck collided with the rear of an automobile, according to police reports.

The automobile, driven by William A. Ham, 49, of 910 Cypress, West Monroe, was stopped for traffic when the truck driven by Calvin Gullette Jr., 30, of 306 Powell Ave., hit the rear of the car, police said.

No charges were filed.

She was found by officers Thursday in a room at the home of her mother, Mrs. Raymond Murphy. The room was described as "rotten with stench." (AP Wirephoto)

Four-Year-Old Girl 'Penned Like Dog'

sheriff's deputies found the child. Later, the mother said she would have no statement "until I talk to my lawyer."

"The child was unbelievably filthy," deputy Arthur Johnson said. "She didn't look as if she had been beaten, but she must have been starved."

Colter said Laura was mute in addition to being blind. "She was so happy for us to be there she just smiled," the county attorney said.

Not Taught To Talk
Dr. Lynn Barnes, who treated

Laura at the hospital, said the little blind girl probably has the ability to talk "but she never had been taught."

"Three years ago," Dr. Barnes said, "this baby was brought to me and I diagnosed it then as malnutrition. She's gained only four pounds since then."

The small room in which the emaciated little Laura was found had no outside windows, only a window opening into the kitchen, which was locked. The door was shut.

"The stench in the room was overpowering," Johnson said. Murphy, a Coffeyville, Kan., dog kellen employee kept a dozen hound dogs penned up in back of the house. "They all were in perfect condition," the county attorney said.

Thought Case 'Impossible'
Irons also said he hopes to gain custody of two of his other children which were living with his ex-wife and her new husband.

"I thought I had an impossible case—they always award custody of children to the mother," said Irons. "I just kept my chin up and waited," he said.

Irons' fourth child, a boy, 8, is in the state hospital for mentally retarded children at Enid, he said. Dr. Barnes said Laura had been born prematurely and had always been blind.

Sheriff's deputies said other children living with the Murphy family apparently were well-cared for and they said the family owned a modern automobile.

Everyone interested in the situation is invited to attend the hearings. G. T. Kellogg, technical secretary for the Arkansas Commission, explained that oral statements will be heard, but warned that for accuracy in the records, all important facts and arguments should be submitted in writing, in duplicate.

Written statements may be handed to him at the hearings or mailed to him at the Commission headquarters in Little Rock, beforehand.

In commenting on the hearings, Kellogg said that investigation has proved that "industrial wastes, municipal wastes and salt brines originating from oil wells in the Smackover Creek Drainage Basin are causing serious pollution of Smackover Creek, which in turn contributes substantially to the pollution of the Ouachita River."

The Monday hearing in Camden will be held on Ranges 16-20 West, while the El Dorado hearing Wednesday will be on areas in Ranges 14 and 15 West.

Family Night Scheduled By Scout Group

"Family Night" will be held in connection with the semi-annual council meeting of the Silver Waters Girl Scout Council Monday night in St. Paul's Methodist Church recreation hall.

The event will begin at 7 p.m. in the hall on Lexington Avenue. Delegates to the council will vote on the group's business affairs. Representatives in all 11 parishes covered by the council are urged by officials to come, bring their families, and a covered dish supper for a "get-together supper" at the air-conditioned hall.

During a brief business meeting, movies will be shown in another room to entertain the children.

1959 Budget

The 1959 budget will be up for approval at the business meeting. Mrs. Guy Alford of Columbia, vice-president of the council, will preside over the session. Committee members for the night include Mrs. Ralph Caldwell, Mrs. Dixie Ware and Mrs. Alford.

A special attraction at the meeting will be a pottery display. Eighteen Girl Scouts who devoted three hours daily for more than 10 days earned pottery badges by fulfilling all the requirements of the badge while making the wares which will be exhibited.

Lamkin Condition 'About The Same'

E. T. Lamkin, Monroe resident who suffered a gunshot wound of the head Tuesday, was reported "about the same" last night by attending physicians.

Lamkin was picked up at his home Tuesday and taken to the hospital where a fragment of a bullet was removed from his brain.

A police report on the incident is expected this morning. Lamkin underwent emergency treatment following his admission to the hospital.

Sherman Adams Departure Asked

praised Watkins for "a very splendid job" as chairman of the special committee that recommended condemnation of some of the official conduct of the late Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

The six-man committee acted unanimously.

Watkins was called to the White House to talk with Eisenhower after the committee's recommendations had been approved 67-22 by the Senate.

Harris, at a news conference, took issue with a White House contention that Goldfine didn't receive preferred treatment from federal agencies.

Harris declined to say whether he believed Adams had violated any law.

Asked whether the matter was being turned over to the attorney general, who reviews cases for possible prosecution, Harris said several federal agencies were getting transcripts of the subcommittee proceedings as a matter of routine. He said that includes the Justice Department.

"In due time," he added, the subcommittee will decide whether to refer any of its cases specifically to the attorney general.

Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss.), who sat in on Harris' news conference, said he thinks Adams' actions "have reflected on the integrity of the administration... if I were president, I would give him the opportunity to resign, and if he did not, take the necessary action."

A number of Republicans have called for Adams' resignation.

Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland of California questioned Thursday whether Adams has not outlived his usefulness.

Watkins, a quiet-spoken, former Mormon missionary, noted that both Adams and Eisenhower have acknowledged it was imprudent for Adams to contact federal agencies on behalf of his old friend Goldfine while accepting from the wealthy Boston industrialist hotel hospitality and other favors.

"His action was not only 'imprudent,' in my judgment, but it was a violation of his own standard of ethics required of federal officials and particularly those in the President's official family," Watkins said.

"In the light of the record as measured by the high standards of ethics set by both the President and Mr. Adams, there seems to be no other possible conclusion than that Adams should resign."

Similarly, Rep. Charles B. Brownson (R-Ind.) said he hopes Adams will develop "the judgment sensitivity and courage to resign."

Civil Rights Suit Shift Is Asked Here

Monroe Negro attorney James Sharp yesterday asked that the location of his Civil Rights suit be moved from the courtroom of the Ouachita Parish Courthouse to the federal courtroom in the Monroe Post Office.

Another motion filed simultaneously with it was to dismiss his demand for damages of $25,000 which had charged that he was threatened in his attempts to represent Dr. John I. Reddix, Monroe Negro.

On Wednesday, Sharp asked the court for permission to withdraw as counsel in a civil rights case, in which he was representing Dr. Reddix against Ouachita Parish Registrar of Voters Mrs. Mae Luckey.

Dr. Reddix plans to leave the state permanently. However, he will be subpoenaed as a witness at a pretrial conference June 30 in Monroe.

In his motion filed yesterday, Sharp reiterated his demands for all equity relief originally asked and requested that this be decided by the court, not a jury.

He also asked for a permanent injunction ordering Mrs. Luckey and her successors to refrain from discriminating against him, and others because of race or color.

Trial Location
In Shreveport, Federal Clerk of Court Alton Curtis, when contacted last night, said that the trial location had been set for the Ouachita Parish Courthouse because the courtroom there was air conditioned, and the one in the federal building was not.

In Monroe, Sharp commented that he asked for the change of trial location because he felt that the need might arise for federal protection and that could be given best on federal property.

He explained that he filed the motion to dismiss the claim for damages, since there is an area of doubt in the law as to whether he could recover damages.

"I'm not too interested in damages, I simply want to have the question of law decided on as to how the registrar should conduct her office," Sharp revealed.

Truck And Auto
In Collision Here

A wreck causing estimated damage at less than a $100 occurred yesterday in West Monroe when a large concrete-mixer truck collided with the rear of an automobile, according to police reports.

The automobile, driven by William A. Ham, 49 of 910 Cypress, West Monroe, was stopped for traffic when the truck driven by Calvin Gullette Jr., 30 of 306 Powell ave. hit the rear of the car, police said.

No charges were filed.

She was found by officers Thursday in a room at the home of her mother, Mrs. Raymond Murphy. The room was described as "rotten with stench." (AP Wirephoto)

Four-Year-Old Girl 'Penned Like Dog'

sheriff's deputies found the child. Later, the mother said she would have no statement "until I talk to my lawyer."

"The child was unbelievably filthy," deputy Arthur Johnson said. "She didn't look as if she had been bathed, but she must have been starved."

Colter said Laura was mute in addition to being blind. "She was so happy for us to be there she just smiled," the county attorney said.

Not Taught To Talk
Dr. Lynn Barnes, who treated

Laura at the hospital, said the little blind girl probably has the ability to talk "but she never had been taught."

"Three years ago," Dr. Barnes said, "this baby was brought to me and I diagnosed it then as malnutrition. She's gained only four pounds since then."

The small room in which the emaciated little Laura was found had no outside windows, only a window opening into the kitchen, which was locked. The door was shut.

"The stench in the room was overpowering," Johnson said. Murphy, a Coffeyville, Kan., dog kellen employee kept a dozen bound dogs penned up in back of the house. "They all were in perfect condition," the county attorney said.

Thought Case 'Impossible'
Irons also said he hopes to gain custody of two of his other children which were living with his ex-wife and her new husband.

"I thought I had an impossible case—they always award custody of children to the mother," said Irons. "I just kept my chin up and waited," he said.

Irons' fourth child, a boy, 8, is in the state hospital for mentally retarded children at Enid, he said.

Dr. Barnes said Laura had been born prematurely and had always been blind.

Sheriff's deputies said other children living with the Murphy family apparently were well-cared for and they said the family owned a modern automobile.

Giants Looking Up With Rookies In League Race

By LEE LINDER
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The San Francisco Giants, sixth in the National League last year, were in second place Friday—and looking up.

And why not? asks Manager

Bill Rigney who predicts anything can happen in the current red-hot pennant race.

The season is more than a third over, heading toward the half-way mark, and Friday standings showed the Giants just two games back of the world champion Milwaukee Braves.

"If," says Rigney, "If we can stay as close to the top by the All-Star Game (July 8) we should start improving our position."

"If"—there it was again—"If our pitching keeps improving and our boys start hitting for runs we're going to be real tough, but real tough."

Rigney is sold on his club, composed of a sprinkling of young rookies who have given San Francisco fans possibly a premature pennant bug. Typical of this youth is Felipe Alou.

With Willie Mays, hard-hitting center fielder, still resting in a New York hospital, Rigney shifted to the 20-year-old Alou, a Dominican Republic native with less than two weeks major league experience.

"Alou is going to be a pretty good player," Rigney says. "He's just a kid now, but he's the second best outfielder we've got. Nobody can be better than Mays. When Willie gets back into the line-up, Alou will take over right field again."

Rigney also had high praise for Paul Giel, a rookie right-hander who has pitched two games and won and lost by identical 2-1 scores. Giel, an All-America half-back from Minnesota in 1953, recently returned from military service.

"Giel is one bonus player who won't be a flop," Rigney predicts. The manager said he would continue to use Giel in spots, rather than give him a regular turn on the mound.

"We've got a young, aggressive club," Rigney says. "Many of them are in their early 20s. As they get their confidence they're going to get better."

"All of the boys have ability, and all will improve as the season goes along."

"The future of the San Francisco Giants looks good—very good."

This year? "I can't predict where we'll finish," replies Rigney. "But we'll be up there."

"We're not going to fold. No club will run away with it. It's a horse race from top to bottom, but Milwaukee is still the team to beat."

Miss Berg, bidding for her seventh Western Open title, posted six birdies on her second round to sweep past the first day co-leaders, Marlene Hagge and Betty Dodd. A pair of bogeys on the back nine cut into Miss Berg's margin.

Mrs. Hagge of Delray Beach, Fla., took an 82 and Miss Dodd of Louisville, Ky., shot an 83. They had tied for the first round lead with 71.

Miss Berg was the only golfer to beat par on the windswept Kahkwa County Club course. Par for the 6,379 yard layout is 37-36-73.

Garris Accepts Bout With Bell

Dewayne Garris, with a string of five consecutive knockout victories behind him, will test his punching power against a heavier foe when he meets Jimmy Bell of Dallas, Tex., on the Tuesday night fight card here, Promoter Gus Kallio said yesterday.

Kallio, who earlier had lined up another preliminary, grabbed for this one instead when Garris, the Farmerville-Monroe scrapper nearing the light heavyweight ranks, insisted he wanted to meet the challenge of the 190-pound Bell.

"Bell is a 26-year-old up from the Golden Glove ranks who is making his professional debut," Kallio said. "He's six-foot-one, Dewayne, weighing about 170 and getting stronger and heavier, stands six-two and a half."

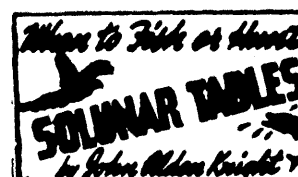

Garris, a lean, lanky youth when he made his pro debut a little over two years ago as a welterweight, had grown quite a bit in the last year. He has displayed his growing power in the string of kayoes to his credit.

Feature of Tuesday show, however, is the ten-round return match between "Irish" Johnny McKoin, the Bastrop welterweight, and Al Boudreaux, the confident south Louisiana puncher from Westwego.

The program was originally set for an earlier date but was postponed until next Tuesday when McKoin suffered a training injury—a gash over an eye that is now healed.

Tickets purchased in advance for the original date are still good, Promoter Kallio said. The advanced sale is still in progress at Kallio's residence office, 1101 Jackson Street; at Fink's clothing store, and at Arlie's Cafe in Bastrop. The pasteboards are $2.50 for ringsides, over half of which are already gone; $1.50 for general admissions and 75 cents for children under 16 years of age.

Miss Pushing New Queen Of College Golf

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Carole Pushing, a charming 18-year-old Carleton College freshman, became the women's collegiate golf champion Friday in her first major tournament outside her native Minnesota.

Carole won the title in a 19-hole duel with Judy Bell of Wichita University, a 21-year-old with years of tournament experience. But it was Judy who folded in the stretch.

The Wichita girl, who also lost in the 1957 final, blew up on the extra hole after placing her drive in short rough. She was six feet away from the pin after five strokes and conceded Carole a par 4. Carole was only 18 inches from the cup on a 70-foot approach.

The victor completed a sweep through the "big three" of the tournament on successive days.

3-HITTER FOR MORRIS

Ruston Defeats Kilpatrick, 3-1

Second place Ruston sent over three runs in the first inning and then held on behind the 3-hit pitching of Ronnie Morris for a 3-1 victory over West Monroe in a Fifth District American Legion game at West Monroe yesterday.

Morris gave up a two-out single in the first and two more rallies and a run in the second but was not touched the rest of the way retiring the side in order in all but the sixth when Charley Dykes walked to lead off. The left-hander fanned six and walked only two.

West Monroe's Wayne Works also toiled brilliantly after the rocky first inning and allowed only one hit the rest of the way and four altogether. He struck out nine but walked four and made two wild pitches.

Works walked Max Lewis to open the first, then fanned Donnie Brunson. John Bailey, however, beat out a swinging bunt and went to second when Works threw wild trying to get him at first. Lewis went to third on the error and he and Bailey came home on Bo Dick Smith's single to left.

T. I. Brooks fanned for the second out before John Porter singled to right and Smith came in with the third run when the right fielder fumbled the ball. Works and Upton hit third strikeout victim to retire the side.

John Moses led off West Monroe's second with a double. He went to third on Ricky Daley's infield groundout and then came home on Glen Dowdy's grounder to short. Tommy Lolley got a one-bagger to keep the rally going but Works popped out to the catcher for the third out.

West Monroe only had one more baserunner the rest of the way. Dykes led off the sixth with a walk and advanced to second when the first baseman dropped a pick-off throw. He stayed there as Morris retired the next three.

Ruston threatened twice after the first, once in the fifth and then in the sixth. Charles Fuller singled to lead off the fifth and advanced to second and then third on a wild pitch and passed ball. Works' wildness got him in a jam in the sixth when Bailey and Smith opened with walks and Brooks sacrificed them around. However, Bailey was out trying to steal home and Porter fouled out for the third out.

The win left Clyde Berry's team with a 5-1 record and the loss was the third of the year for Dick Howard's crew against four wins.

Tennis Lights Ready For Use

The long-awaited tennis court lights in Forsythe Park are now ready for use. H. W. McSherry, Monroe Commissioner of Finance and Utilities, said the meter switches for the lights have arrived and were installed yesterday, thus making night tennis a reality here.

"All you do is drop in a quarter, and lights are provided for one hour," McSherry said.

The two concrete courts are equipped with 11 floodlights each. The lights are turned on by depositing a quarter in the meter and will remain on for an hour.

Another courts improvement may be available sometime next week. McSherry said the asphalt court will be converted into a practice court with a wooden wall in the middle so a lone player can sharpen up his game. The Commissioner said the work should be completed by the end of the week.

Another proposed improvement, putting in concrete from the back of the courts to the fence, is still being debated, McSherry said. He said the cost of the project had been estimated at $800.

"We're still working on it, trying to get the cost down," McSherry said.

BATTLE OF OARS

Quakers Slight Regatta Choice

By MURRAY ROSE
SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Pennsylvania's high stroking Quakers Friday were favored slightly to end a long standing jinx and win the Intercollegiate Rowing Assn. championship on Onondaga Lake Saturday.

Penn last won this race in 1900. The Quakers are rated a shade better than Syracuse, a non-winner since 1920, and Cornell, which hasn't won a race all spring.

Princeton's tall, husky eight, California's young dark horses, and Navy's improving boatload also figured to be contenders in the most wide open battle for the varsity challenge cup in seven years.

Dartmouth, Wisconsin, Columbia and Massachusetts Institute of Technology round out the field of ten for the three-mile classic.

Penn has been established the favorite for the nine crew junior varsity three-miler and joint choices with Cornell for the nine crew freshman two-miler. If the Quakers crews live up to expectations, Penn should romp off with the Jim Ten Eyck team trophy. The team competition is based on results of all three races.

This is the first time since the famed regatta shifted to Onondaga in 1952 that there is no outstanding favorite.

Navy's great admirals ruled the waves in 1952, 1953 and 1954. The Cornell dynasty followed. The Big Red captured the gleaming silverware in 1955, 1956 and 1957, winding up with an unbeaten '57 season and a victory in the Henley Regatta in England.

The coaches picked Penn, Cornell, and Syracuse to finish one-two-three followed by Navy, California, Dartmouth, Wisconsin, Princeton, Columbia and MIT. The freshmen open the program at 1 p.m., CST. Then comes the Jayvees at 1:30 p.m. and the varsity showpiece at 2:15.

Rain Delays College Net Tournament

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Rain provided a rest Friday for semi-finalists in the National Collegiate Tennis Championships.

The semifinals have been reset for Saturday, and the final is scheduled Sunday.

Southern California holds a two-point lead in the battle for team championship, and the Trojans are the players to beat for the individual singles and doubles titles.

USC has 9 points, Stanford is next with 7 and Iowa has 4. Each victory from here on is worth another point.

Alex Olmedo, Southern Cal's ace and a favorite to repeat his 1956 singles championship, will face fifth-seeded Art Andrews of Iowa at 1:30 p.m. in Saturday's first match. Ten third-ranked Donald Dell of Yale takes on Stanford's upset-minded Jack Douglas who was seeded seventh.

Miss Pushing New Queen Of College Golf

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Carole Pushing, a charming 18-year-old Carleton College freshman, became the women's collegiate golf champion Friday in her first major tournament outside her native Minnesota.

Carole won the title in a 19-hole duel with Judy Bell of Wichita University, a 21-year-old with years of tournament experience. But it was Judy who folded in the stretch.

The Wichita girl, who also lost in the 1957 final, blew up on the extra hole after placing her drive in short rough. She was six feet away from the pin after five strokes and conceded Carole a par 4. Carole was only 18 inches from the cup on a 70-foot approach.

The victor completed a sweep through the "big three" of the tournament on successive days.

Repairs Progress On Road Cave-In

Completion date for the repair work on the Jackson Street cave-in has been set for the latter part of next week, according to Commissioner of Finance and Utilities H. W. McSherry.

City engineer Wade Sanders noted that sheet piling has been sunk 12-14 feet deep at the crater which formed at the intersection of Jackson and Plum Streets.

"We completed sinking that sheet piling yesterday. The machine used for the work will no longer be needed," Sanders added. Machinery for pounding the metal into the earth had been rented. The sheet piling is sunk deeper than the section which must be repaired, to ward off any danger of landslide.

Will Be Cleaned
The entire crater will be cleaned out, and once the source of the trouble is located it will be repaired. New sewer pipes also will be installed.

Officials stated that the hardest part of the operation is over. Next in line for work in the Country Club Road, where another crater has developed. Wood piling will be sunk there to hold back earth.

City officials indicated that sheet piling, instead of wood, was used at Jackson Street, since it is in a heavily-travelled business district, and greater danger existed

Tourist Drive To Be Planned At LMA Meet

LAFAYETTE (Special) — Members of the Louisiana Municipal Association's tourist committee will meet here June 28 to discuss the LMA's far-reaching tourist promotion campaign.

Mayor Jerome Domengeaux of Lafayette, state chairman of the committee, said a full agenda has been scheduled, including explanatory talks on the association's nine-point tourist inducement drive.

The conference will be held at a private camp on the outskirts of Lafayette beginning at 3 p.m.

Domengeaux said the 18-member delegation will be briefed on details of the tourist drive, and described the meeting as the most important one yet scheduled in the LMA's efforts to make tourism a billion dollar a year industry in Louisiana.

The campaign calls for publication of the state's first comprehensive tourist guide, "Lovely Louisiana," tourist educational clinics throughout the state, and nationwide publicity in major newspapers and magazines.

Curt Seiglin, head of the Department of Commerce and Industry, and W. L. Billups, chairman of the State Tourist Commission, are expected to attend.

Members of the committee include Mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans, Mayor William J. White of Gretna, Mayor McKerral O'Neill of Franklin, Mayor Joe H. Robertson of Homer, Mayor Roy Snider of Delhi, Mayor B. A. Vetter of Donaldsonville, Mayor Joe Gielen of Crowley, Councilman James W. Goodwin, Pineville, Mayor Sidney Gray of Lake Charles, Mayor W. Mayor P. Armand Vitor of New Iberia, Mayor Frank Kees of Natchitoches, Councilman Howard C. White of Lake Providence, Mayor Leonard J. Toups of Thibodaux and Councilman Victor H. Schiro of New Orleans.

It was thoughtful of the baccalaureate speaker to tell the graduates that their future lay ahead of them, so that none of them will make the mistake of looking for it behind them.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Train Child When He Is Aware Of Circumstance

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

This grandmother, despite her own experience, seems very dubious about her ability to help her daughter-in-law who is trying to toilet-train her child.

"Please print in your column," she asks, "how to train a child to the toilet. My daughter-in-law has an 18 months old baby and is trying to train him. She bought a 'trainer' but is having a hard time. At what age should a child be started? Should she use a diaper in the daytime, or when the child is put to bed at night?"

If you had sent me a stamped, self-addressed envelope I could have sent you our leaflet, "Toilet Training" by return mail. I'm sorry this has to take longer.

The time to begin training a child for bladder control is when he seems aware of what he is doing. When he notices his pants are wet, or there is a puddle on the floor, then he is ready to learn a better way of managing this function. The age at which this happens may be earlier or later than 14 months or thereabouts, depending entirely on the child.

Two Weeks to ? ? When training is started it may take from two weeks to as many months to complete it. Being controlled means not only that the child is willing and cooperative, but that his genito-urinary system is sufficiently developed so that he can be successful in keeping dry.

Try taking him to the bathroom when he wakes up, right before has to learn. Be unemotional about your teaching.

He'll need diapers at night as long as he wets the bed which probably will be much longer than when he can be dry in daytime. After a child learns how to be dry when awake, he gradually acquires the capacity to keep himself dry at night. But seldom at 18 months - more often at two years, or later. I'm unfamiliar with "a trainer."

If you would like our leaflet No. 65 "Toilet Training" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Strawberry plants can now be tested for invisible virus diseases that have previously gone undetected. By grafting leaflets from the plant to be tested to a virus sensitive "indicator plant" of the strawberry species, scientists can determine whether the test plant is diseased. If no symptoms appear in the indicator plant within four to six weeks the plant under test is considered virus free.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Train Child When He Is Aware Of Circumstance

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

This grandmother, despite her own experience, seems very dubious about her ability to help her daughter-in-law who is trying to toilet-train her child.

"Please print in your column," she asks, "how to train a child to the toilet. My daughter-in-law has an 18 months old baby and is trying to train him. She bought a 'trainer' but is having a hard time. At what age should a child be started? Should she use a diaper in the daytime, or when the child is put to bed at night?"

If you had sent me a stamped, self-addressed envelope I could have sent you our leaflet, "Toilet Training" by return mail. I'm sorry this has to take longer.

The time to begin training a child for bladder control is when he seems aware of what he is doing. When he notices his pants are wet, or there is a puddle on the floor, then he is ready to learn a better way of managing this function. The age at which this happens may be earlier or later than 14 months or thereabouts, depending entirely on the child.

When training is started it may take from two weeks to as many months to complete it. Being controlled means not only that the child is willing and cooperative, but that his genito-urinary system is sufficiently developed so that he can be successful in keeping dry.

Irrigation can either help or hinder the growth of tomatoes. Recent tests have shown that while irrigation increases the yield and quality of some varieties of tomatoes it actually interferes with others. In cases of poor response it was found that irrigation stimulated vegetable growth at the expense of development of good red color in tomatoes.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Problem Here Known As Self-Discipline

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I'm in a mess and too ashamed to go to anyone I know. Please tell me what to do. I'm going crazy.

I'm drowning in a sea of debts and there's no land in sight. I've been married almost five years and my husband makes a good salary. He's always given me his check and kept a small allowance for lunches and gasoline. I've obligated myself all over town, I bought a color TV set, new refrigerator, new rugs, an automatic washer, and many things which seemed easy to handle on time payments.

Now I'm afraid to answer the door or the phone for fear it's a bill collector. If my husband knew of the shape we were in financially I'm afraid he'd break my neck. Don't give me a howling out. I know I deserve it, Ann, but what I need is a way out of this mess. —In Deep

The first thing to do is pull yourself together and make a list of your debts. Decide how much you can pay on each bill every week. Go to your creditors and tell them you're in a bind. Explain you intend to pay your bills in full, and ask them to be patient. Then, take an oath on a stack of dunning letters that you're not going to buy one nickel's worth until you're completely out of hock.

Your real problem is self discipline. Once you've put your foot down (on your pocket book) you'll be surprised at how many things you can live without.

Dear Ann: Is there any way I can convince the girls I meet that a man doesn't have to be tall to be a good husband? I'm 5 feet 6, the same height as Carmen Basilio.

Ever since my college days I've been jilted for a taller man. I'm 42 years old and still a bachelor. The average girl is shorter than I am. Why does a five foot girl insist on a six foot man? Shouldn't a girl be content with sobriety, honor, kindness, loyalty and intelligence, regardless of physical height? If a man is a cheat, a liar and a drunk does it make him more attractive if there's six feet of him lying in jail or staggering in the gutter?

I've contacted matrimonial agencies, Get-Acquainted Groups and Lonely Hearts Clubs but I find that 3 out of 4 women specify a man must be tall. What's the answer? —G.L.B.

I haven't got an answer, but I

Irrigation can either help or hinder the growth of tomatoes. Recent tests have shown that while irrigation increases the yield and quality of some varieties of tomatoes it actually interferes with others. In cases of poor response it was found that irrigation stimulated vegetable growth at the expense of development of good red color in tomatoes.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Problem Here Known As Self-Discipline

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I'm in a mess and too ashamed to go to anyone I know. Please tell me what to do. I'm going crazy.
I'm drowning in a sea of debts and there's no land in sight. I've been married almost five years and my husband makes a good salary. He's always given me his check and kept a small allowance for lunches and gasoline. I've obligated myself all over town. I bought a color TV set, new refrigerator, new rugs, an automatic washer, and many things which seemed easy to handle on time payments.
Now I'm afraid to answer the door or the phone for fear it's a bill collector. If my husband knew of the shape we were in financially I'm afraid he'd break my neck. Don't give me a bawling out. I know I deserve it, Ann, but what I need is a way out of this mess. —In Deep

The first thing to do is pull yourself together and make a list of your debts. Decide how much you can pay on each bill every week. Go to your creditors and tell them you're in a bind. Explain you intend to pay your bills in full, and ask them to be patient. Then, take an oath on a stack of dunning letters that you're not going to buy one nickel's worth until you're completely out of hock.

Your real problem is self discipline. Once you've put your foot down (on your pocket book) you'll be surprised at how many things you can live without.

Dear Ann: Is there any way I can convince the girls I meet that a man doesn't have to be tall to be a good husband? I'm 5 feet 6, the same height as Carmen Basilio.

Ever since my college days I've been jilted for a taller man. I'm 42 years old and still a bachelor. The average girl is shorter than I am. Why does a five foot girl insist on a six foot man? Shouldn't a girl be content with sobriety, honest kindness, loyalty and intelligence, regardless of physical height? If a man is a cheat, a liar and a drunk does it make him more attractive if there's six feet of him lying in jail or staggering in the gutter?

I've contacted matrimonial agencies, Get-Acquainted Groups and Lonely Hearts Clubs but I find that 3 out of 4 women specify a man must be tall. What's the answer? —G.L.B.

I haven't got an answer, but I

ANTHRAX SPREADS

Quarantine Area To Lincoln Parish

As Lincoln Parish went under strict quarantine last night, the number of parishes involved in the quarantine action rose to 11.

Franklin, already on the list, had a case near Wisner yesterday, but the disease seems to be sticking up in Morehouse and Ouachita.

Madison and Tensas are also quarantined, but have no reported cases. Quarantines in parishes not yet suffering comes as a preventive measure, it was explained.

Catahoula and Concordia are not quarantined, but a strong vaccination program in those parishes is recommended by officials. It was pointed out that as the flood waters recede, the infection may travel on down there.

Two more confirmed cases reported yesterday in Richland, which is under the quarantine. Regulatory personnel are patrolling the highways and parish lines, and are stopping all trucks entering or leaving the quarantine area, according to Dr. A. B. Cochran, area veterinarian.

Ten other northeast parishes are under quarantine for anthrax. They include Ouachita, Morehouse, Richland, Caldwell, West Carroll, Union, East Carroll, Madison, Tensas and Franklin.

In addition to anthrax, three other cattle diseases have been reported in lesser numbers in northeast Louisiana.

The death rate of farm animals in Ouachita Parish is approximately 110, officials report. Dr. W. B. Patterson, of the Ruston diagnostic laboratory of the State Livestock Sanitation Board, said the other ailments are leptospirosis, black leg and anaplasmosis.

Officials said these diseases have not shown as great a tendency to spread as anthrax has.

Blood Disorder
Anaplasmosis is a cattle disease of the blood and is spread by insects. About 40 cases of it were reported in the parish last year.

Black leg is a glandular disease which resembles anthrax. It was pointed out that cattle are usually immunized against black leg and malignant edema at the same time.

Leptospirosis is spread by the urine of infected cattle if it falls into drinking water, or drains into drinking water sources. It may also spread to other animals, such as hogs.

The other diseases mentioned are occurring in much smaller numbers than the major concern, anthrax.

Lincoln Parish reported its first anthrax case yesterday, a mule north of Choudrant which died of the disease.

In Ouachita, several mules and hogs have died of anthrax in the Perryville area, in addition to cattle, and a suspected case is being checked near Bosco.

Scattered Cases
Scattered anthrax cases have been reported in West Carroll and Caldwell, but there are no signs that the disease is spreading there.

Catahoula and East Carroll have reported no anthrax deaths.

A Negro who contracted the disease in West Monroe, the only case in humans reported during the current epidemic, is reported to be recovering. He is the third human case of anthrax in the United States this year.

Five-Day-Old Strike Over

NEW YORK (AP)—A five-day-old strike by marine engineers against East and Gulf coast ship-owners was settled late Friday.

The strike, by the Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn., could have meant slow paralysis of movements by dry cargo and passenger ships sailing under the American flag.

The MEBA was the last of four maritime unions to reach new work agreements with the ship-owners organization, the American Merchant Marine Institute.

TWO PERSONS INJURED

Tornadoes Hit Around Dallas

By United Press International
Gray tornadoes stalked through sudden rains around Dallas Friday and a funnel carved a 150-yard wide path through a Panhandle village, injuring two persons. There were no injuries or damages in at least six tornadoes in the Dallas area. There were three tornadoes earlier in the Panhandle.

Highway Patrolman A. M. Frazier watched from his patrol car as a swirling gray funnel, hazy through sheets of rain, skimmed along a field for a quarter mile before it sailed back into a boiling cloud near Royce City, 32 miles northeast of Dallas.

Other tornadoes in the North—Two spotted near Gainesville. —One on Lake Texoma. —One reported on the ground just northeast of hie Dallas city limits.

—Two, unconfirmed, near Mesquite, a suburb east of Dallas. —Between Terrell and Forney, east of Dallas and north of U. S. 80.

A tornado slammed into the community of Electric City, three miles north of Borger, before dawn Friday.

It exploded a trailer house, injuring its occupants. They were Mrs. Martha Cator, 45, of Borger, and George Mars, 50, of Stinnett, both of whom were in fair condition.

Other Panhandle tornadoes were sighted before dawn near McLean and north of Stratford. Wind and hail caused glass breakage in Borger, Stratford and Sanford and uprooted 20 to 30 telephone poles near Kerriek.

Funnel Approaches
Dr. A. L. Shook, operator of Flowing Wells resort west of Denison on Lake Texoma, said he and patrons of his cafe looked out the window and saw a funnel approaching over the lake.

"It picked up so much water you could hardly tell the funnel from the water," Shook said. It splashed through the lake for about two minutes and then moved back into its cloud, he said.

Meanwhile in South Texas, a flood crest of around 17 feet was expected on the Frio River at Fowlerton. The Corpus Christi weather bureau pulled down its early forecast of a giant crest at the village after the river crested Friday at 16.5 upriver from Fowlerton, at Derby.

FASTER OIL CHECK

TULSA, Okla. —(UP)—An instrument which speeds up interpretation of information about possible underground oil-bearing formations has been developed by Sinclair Research Laboratories, Inc. It's called a dip plotter and is used to plot information from a seismic recording on a geological cross-section. It works 10 times faster than hand-plotting.

AGAINST DANES

Demonstration Waged In USSR

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet demonstrators threw stones, broke windows, waved banners and shouted at the Danish Embassy Friday in a protest against what Moscow radio called a "gangsterish attack" on the Soviet Embassy in Copenhagen last Tuesday night by a mob angered by the liquidation of Hungarian ex-Premier Imre Nagy.

Persons at the Danish Embassy said a crowd of 200 to 300 persons marched on the building and kept up a chanting, shouting demonstration for about two hours.

Volley of stones broke seven windows, and then the crowd hurled some of its anti-Danish banners through the openings. The banners bore such slogans as "Danes are imperialists, friendly to Hungarian rebels."

Danish Ambassador Alex Morch, who was absent at the start of the demonstration, returned in the middle of it and immediately filed a protest with the Soviet government.

Several Soviet police, including about 20 on horseback, remained at the scene after the demonstrators departed.

The Soviet government earlier had protested to the Danes against the Copenhagen demonstration, charging Danish authorities knew of plans for the demonstration and did nothing to stop it.

Such demonstrations against foreign embassies seldom occur in Moscow. The last instance was in November 1956, when crowds totaling about 3,000 swirled about British, French and Israeli embassies demanding withdrawal of troops from the attack on Egypt.

Yugoslav Ambassador Vleko Micunovic had a talk with Premier Nikita Khrushchev Thursday. It was assumed the talk concerned the secret trial and execution of Nagy, considered here the arch counterrevolutionary in the 1956 Hungarian revolt.

Persons at the Danish Embassy said a crowd of 200 to 300 persons marched on the building and kept up a chanting, shouting demonstration for about two hours.

Volleys of stones broke seven windows, and then the crowd hurled some of its anti-Danish banners through the openings. The banners bore such slogans as "Danes are imperialists, friendly to Hungarian rebels."

Danish Ambassador Alex Morch, who was absent at the start of the demonstration, returned in the middle of it and immediately filed a protest with the Soviet government.

Several Soviet police, including about 20 on horseback, remained at the scene after the demonstrators departed.

The Soviet government earlier had protested to the Danes against the Copenhagen demonstration, charging Danish authorities knew of plans for the demonstration and did nothing to stop it.

Such demonstrations against foreign embassies seldom occur in Moscow. The last instance was in November 1956, when crowds totaling about 3,000 swirled about British, French and Israeli embassies demanding withdrawal of troops from the attack on Egypt.

Yugoslav Ambassador Vjekoslav Micunovic had a talk with Premier Nikita Khrushchev Thursday. It was assumed the talk concerned the secret trial and execution of Nagy, considered here the arch counterrevolutionary in the 1956 Hungarian revolt.

Five-Day-Old Strike Over

NEW YORK (AP)—A five-day-old strike by marine engineers against East and Gulf coast ship-owners was settled late Friday. The strike, by the Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn., could have meant slow paralysis of movements by dry cargo and passenger ships sailing under the American flag.

The MEBA was the last of four maritime unions to reach new work agreements with the ship-owners organization, the American Merchant Marine Institute.

HE GOT TIRED

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Nick Sustana tired of pitching tents on his many fishing trips so he built a collapsible 16-foot trailer that features two single and one double bunk, a heater, running water and a four-burner gas stove. It can carry a 14-foot boat on top. The roof is raised and lowered with trench jacks in about six minutes. Even when it is collapsed it's possible to enter a rear door for a nap.

TWO PERSONS INJURED

Tornadoes Hit Around Dallas

By United Press International Gray tornadoes stalked through sudden rains around Dallas Friday and a funnel carved a 150-yard wide path through a Panhandle village, injuring two persons.

There were no injuries or damages in at least six tornadoes in the Dallas area. There were three tornadoes earlier in the Panhandle.

Highway Patrolman A. M. Frazier watched from his patrol car as a swirling gray funnel, hazy through sheets of rain, skimmed along a field for a quarter mile before it sailed back into a boiling cloud near Royce City, 32 miles northeast of Dallas.

Other tornadoes in the North — Two spotted near Gainesville. — One on Lake Texoma. — One reported on the ground just northeast of the Dallas city limits.

— Two, unconfirmed, near Mesquite, a suburb east of Dallas.

— Between Terrell and Forney, east of Dallas and north of U. S. 80.

A tornado slammed into the community of Electric City, three miles north of Borger, before dawn Friday.

It exploded a trailer house, injuring its occupants. They were Mrs. Martha Cator, 45, of Borger, and George Mars, 50, of Stinnett, both of whom were in fair condition.

Other Panhandle tornadoes were sighted before dawn near McLean and north of Stratford. Wind and hail caused glass breakage in Borger, Stratford and Sanford and uprooted 20 to 30 telephone poles near Kerrick.

Funnel Approaches Dr. A. L. Shook, operator of Flowing Wells resort west of Denison on Lake Texoma, said he and patrons of his cafe looked out the window and saw a funnel approaching over the lake.

"It picked up so much water you could hardly tell the funnel from the water," Shook said. It splashed through the lake for about two minutes and then moved back into its cloud, he said.

Meanwhile in South Texas, a flood crest of around 17 feet was expected on the Frio River at Fowlerton. The Corpus Christi weather bureau pulled down its early forecast of a giant crest at the village after the river crested Friday at 16.5 upriver from Fowlerton, at Derby.

FASTER OIL CHECK

TULSA, Okla. — (UP)—An instrument which speeds up interpretation of information about possible underground oil-bearing formations has been developed by Sinclair Research Laboratories, Inc. It's called a dip plotter and is used to plot information from a seismic recording on a geological cross-section. It works 10 times faster than hand plotting.

Expect Arrest

In Ax Slaying

Of Man, Child

BONIFAY, Fla. (AP) — An arrest is expected soon, Sheriff

Cletus Andrews says, in the ax slaying of a tenant farmer, puppet and his small daughter—

two of five members of the family who were beaten June 11.

Andrews made the statement

after a long talk with the farmers' wife yesterday. He had issued a pickup order earlier for a Negro described as a strong suspect. The man's name was withheld.

Beaten to death were Ira Gene

Carnley, 26, and 2-year-old Ernestine.

Mrs. Carnley said she awakened to find her husband had been killed. She said one of two Negro groes raped her and then beat her, and that the children were beaten when they tried to help her.

Auto Crash

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark.

(AP)—Two persons were killed in a spectacular smashup involving an automobile, a tractor-trailer and a pickup truck near here today.

Dead on arrival at a Little

Bowden was driving the pickup truck and Mrs. Selby the car.

They were alone in their vehicles.

Driver of the tractor-trailer was

Jim Lacy of San Angelo, Tex.,

whose two sons, Charles, 15, and Jim, 10, were in the cab with him. Charles suffered minor injuries but the other two were unhurt.

Sheriff's officers quoted wit-

Expect Arrest In Ax Slaying Of Man, Child

BONIFAY, Fla. (AP) — An arrest is expected soon, Sheriff Cletus Andrews says, in the ax slaying of a tenant farmer-pulpwood worker and his small daughter—two of five members of the family who were beaten June 11. Andrews made the statement after a long talk with the farmers' wife yesterday. He had issued a pickup order earlier for a Negro described as a strong suspect. The man's name was withheld.

Beaten to death were Ira Gene Carnley, 26, and 2-year-old Ernestine.

Critically beaten in the small house near Bonifay were Carnley's wife, Sybil, 21; a son, Hershel, 6; and a daughter, Geraldine, 5. A 2-month-old baby, Bobby Ray, was not harmed.

Mrs. Carnley said she awakened to find her husband had been killed. She said one of two Negroes raped her and then beat her, and that the children were beaten when they tried to help her.

RUBBER LOOT BISMARCK, N. D. —(UPI)—Farmer Harvey Nelson knows now why the county tax office always refused his payment of taxes on a 40-acre strip of land he began farming in 1949. Nelson thought he obtained the land as part of an 80-acre purchase from another farmer, but when he sold his farm recently he learned part of the land belonged to someone else.

Two Persons Killed In Auto Crash

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Two persons were killed in a spectacular smashup involving an automobile, a tractor-trailer and a pickup truck near here today.

Dead on arrival at a Little Rock hospital were Horace Bowden, 26, of near North Little Rock, and Mrs. Sam Selby, about 30, of Bauxite, Ark.

Bowden was driving the pickup truck and Mrs. Selby the car. They were alone in their vehicles.

Driver of the tractor-trailer was Jim Lacy of San Angelo, Tex., whose two sons, Charles, 15, and Jim, 10, were in the cab with him. Charles suffered minor injuries but the other two were hurt.

Sheriff's officers quoted witnesses as saying Mrs. Selby's car swerved across the center line on U.S. Highway 67-E about three miles north of here and crashed into the tractor-trailer. The big vehicle went out of control careened across the highway and collided with the pickup truck, officers said.

Selman Field Runways Due Repair Wait

Runways at Selman Field must wait until fall before repairs can be made, although minor patching operations will be conducted where necessary this summer.

Following a meeting yesterday morning attended by Commissioner of Finance and Utilities H. W. McSherry, City Engineer Wade Sanders, Selman Field Manager D. Curtis Seamon and airport maintenance head William Cargile, plans were made to consult an expert on the runway problem.

Sanders will discuss it next week with a representative of Portland Cement Co., according to McSherry.

The commissioner explained that intense summer heat makes the concrete runways expand to maximum width. Every 20 feet along the runway, an asphalt and filler is placed, about three feet deep and three inches wide.

Expansion Joint. Called an "expansion joint," the filler is pliable and contracts or expands according to the amount of space it is allowed by the concrete's expansion. It is deteriorating due to age, water is seeping in, and if allowed to continue unchecked, the water will crack the concrete.

McSherry was apprehensive about doing major repair work during the summer.

"The concrete runways may contract several inches in the cool weather next fall. If we pour in new filler during the summer, and it isn't enough to fill the space when the concrete contracts, the work would be wasted," he commented, adding that any bad spots will be patched to last the summer.

Monroe Selected As Location For Postal Gathering

Monroe will be the site for the next convention of postal supervisors of Mississippi and Louisiana.

Already becoming well-known as an ideal convention headquarters in this region, the city will be host to the postal group for the first time.

Selection of the site was made recently at the 1958 annual convention of postal supervisors, held in Jackson, Miss. The 1959 session will be held in Monroe during the first week of June.

Sputnik Rocket Seen In North

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The rocket carrier of Sputnik III is visible now only in northern parts of the nation, the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said Friday.

The Soviet rocket-satellite has been visible over most of the country on its morning passages during the past week.

It is traveling about 130 miles high on a south-southwest to north-northeast course before sunrise. It can be seen about 250 miles from its overhead path.

Selman Field Runways Due Repair Wait

Runways at Selman Field must wait until fall before repairs can be made, although minor patching operations will be conducted where necessary this summer. Following a meeting yesterday morning attended by Commissioner of Finance and Utilities H. W. McSherry, City Engineer Wade Sanders, Selman Field Manager D. Curtis Seamon and airport maintenance head William Cargile, plans were made to consult an expert on the runway problem.

Sanders will discuss it next week with a representative of Portland Cement Co., according to McSherry. The commissioner explained that intense summer heat makes the concrete runways expand to maximum width. Every 20 feet along the runway, an asphalt and tar filler is placed, about three feet deep and three inches wide.

Expansion Joint
Called an "expansion joint," the filler is pliable and contracts or expands according to the amount of space it is allowed by the concrete's expansion. It is deteriorating due to age, water is seeping in, and if allowed to continue unchecked, the water will crack the concrete.

McSherry was apprehensive about doing major repair work during the summer.

"The concrete runways may contract several inches in the cool weather next fall. If we pour in new filler during the summer, and it isn't enough to fill the space when the concrete contracts, the work would be wasted," he commented, adding that any bad spots will be patched to last the summer.

Monroe Selected As Location For Postal Gathering

Monroe will be the site for the next convention of postal supervisors of Mississippi and Louisiana.

Already becoming well-known as an ideal convention headquarters in this region, the city will be host to the postal group for the first time.

Selection of the site was made recently at the 1958 annual convention of postal supervisors, held in Jackson, Miss. The 1959 session will be held in Monroe during the first week of June.

Sputnik Rocket Seen In North

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The rocket carrier of Sputnik III is visible now only in northern parts of the nation, the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said Friday.

The Soviet rocket-satellite has been visible over most of the country on its morning passages during the past week.

It is traveling about 130 miles high on a south-southwest to north-northeast course before sunrise. It can be seen about 250 miles from its overhead path.
